Saturn Rockets Pegasus 2 Into Orbit in 9th Straight Success

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The Saturn 1 super rocket thundered to its ninth straight successful test flight today and drilled into orbit a mammoth "space bird" satellite to climax a spectacular early morning launching.

The satellite, Pegasus 2, unfolded two giant wings to a span of 96 feet — greater than most four-engine airliners — and began swooping through space like a great bird.

Measure Hazards

It was to measure tiny meteoroids and the hazard they pose to astronauts making lengthy space trips.

Each time the thin, metallic skin of Pegasus 2 is penetrated by one of the streaking cosmic bullets, the satellite is to emit an electronic squawk to be recorded in a memory device and radioed to earth on command.

The 18-story tall Saturn 1, the world's most powerful rocket, uttered a mighty roar and sent a waterfall of flame cascading over its launching pad as it flashed to life at 2:35 a.m. after a perfect countdown.

Power Cluster

The massive first-stage power plant, a cluster of eight engines, generated 1.5 million pounds of thrust.

It was the first time that Saturn 1 had been launched in darkness, and it provided early-rising missile watchers with a brilliant performance of noise and fire.

It illuminated Cape Kennedy as if it were midday.

A great thunderclap rolled across the cape and a 300-foot tail of flame fanned out behind the booster as it raced toward space.

After 2½ minutes, the hydrogen-powered second stage ignited, and pushed the satellite into orbit.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration announced that Pegasus 2 was in an orbit ranging from about 320 to 460 miles high.

They said a camera mounted on the second stage provided clear pictures of the deployment.

The burned-out second stage remained attached to the satellite for stabilization. Total weight was 23,000 pounds. Officials said the payload would be visible in areas of the world over which it passed at night.

$3.37 Billion Sought

GOP Group Plans to Slash $100 Million From Aid Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — A group of House Republicans who call themselves "a minority of the minority" plan today to try to cut up to $100 million from President Johnson's $3.37-billion foreign aid authorization bill.

One of the Republicans, Rep. E. Ross Adair of Indiana, told a reporter he expects to offer at least one or perhaps two amendments in that range to give House members who oppose foreign aid spending a chance to pare the authorization.

Adair was far from optimistic about his chances of succeeding. The composition of the House has changed since two years ago when he led a successful Republican attempt to slash foreign aid by more than $500 million.

Democrat Majority

Not only do Democrats have a topheavy majority in the House, but they can count on considerable support among Republicans who traditionally have made the foreign aid program bipartisan.

Also militating against Adair's position is President Johnson's technique of sending Congress a "barebones" foreign-aid request.

Under President John F. Kennedy and prior to that, it was standard technique to ask Congress for far more in the full expectation that budget-minded congressmen would give the request a hefty cut before passing it.

Adair can count on the support of only four other Republican members of the Foreign Affairs Committee for his position. The seven other Republican members are considered pro-foreign aid.

The four dissenters are Reps. H. R. Gross of Iowa, E. Y. Berry of South Dakota, Edward J. Derwinski of Illinois and Vernon W. Thomson of Wisconsin. With Adair they signed minority views in a report accompanying the bill.

British Adopt Method

Metric System Booster Sees Hope for His Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — Housewives, start thinking of butter at so much a kilogram, and dress goods at so much a meter.

Husbands, try to picture vital dimensions of 91-66-91.

This advice comes from Chairman George P. Miller of the House Committee on Science and Astronautics.

The California Democrat is one American who reacted with absolute delight to Britain's announcement that gradually it will institute the metric system of weights and measures.

"This passes our bill," Miller exclaimed to a reporter.

Study Sought
Like some others in Congress, Miller has been calling for years for a study by the National Bureau of Standards of the problems that would be involved in putting the United States on the metric system. They say use of the metric system would make it easier to relate U.S. technology to that of other nations.

So far the bill has moved hardly a millimeter in the face of opposition by members who don't think the results of such a study would be worth its cost, estimated by Miller at $200,000 to $500,000.

"When Britain goes through with this, we will be absolutely alone with our complicated, outdated system of measurements," Miller said. "Our competitive position will be horrible. Have you noticed that our food package labels already carry a line giving the contents in grams?"

Hearings Slated
Miller, a spry 74, said he would waste no time pushing for the study that could lead to the substitution of meters, kilograms and liters for feet, pounds and quarts.

"We'll have hearings next month," he said. "This has got to come, and the sooner we get started, the sooner the confusion will be over."

The British government announcement suggested a 10-year change-over period. Miller is willing to allow even more time here. "Some estimates say a generation would be required for the full change to be absorbed."

"The adjustment probably will be hardest for industries like automobile manufacturing," he said. "And, of course, the average citizen will have to get used to a whole new scale of pricing."

"And those beauty contestants — well, I guess the slogan will be to break 100."

State Seeks More Data on Federal Aid

MADISON (AP) — State Superintendent of Public Instruction Angus Rothwell says Wisconsin school officials hope to learn more about the new $1.3 billion federal aid to education program through conferences next month in Madison and Washington, D.C.

Rothwell said Monday that no information has been provided on the amount due school districts and rules for project applications have not been established.

The measure, which was signed into law in April, will provide nearly $20.9 million to Wisconsin school districts and another $2.1 million for books and other supplies. In addition, funds will be available for research, pilot projects and administration.

Edgar Fuller, a national officer of an organization of state school officials, will be in Madison June 3-4 to answer questions on the new program. From June 22 to 24, Rothwell will attend a meeting of school superintendents in Washington at which federal regulations governing the act will be explained.

Vietnamese Outpost Strafed by 2 Planes

First Reports Confused On Identity of Attackers

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — A South Vietnamese outpost five miles from the 17th parallel came under an aerial strafing attack today that an American spokesman attributed to straying U. S. jet fighters. First accounts had said the planes were Communist MIGs. Five Vietnamese were wounded, a truck destroyed and a bulldozer set afire at Gia Linh. Four planes made the raid with a single pass, two firing on the outpost and the other two flying top cover.

Brig. Gen. Nguyen Chanh Thi, military commander of the area, said he had eyewitness reports that the raiders were MIG jets, painted black and with no wing markings. He said this led him to suspect they were Communist Chinese.

A total of 40 U.S. planes had been engaged at that point in raids on targets in Communist North Viet Nam. The most spectacular was the blasting of a petroleum storage area near Vinh, 140 miles south of Hanoi by 12 U.S. Air Force F105 Thunderchiefs.

24 Tons

Military spokesmen said the raiders dropped 24 tons of 750-pound bombs. Pilots reported secondary explosions aground said they left the area engulfed in flames and smoke.

The spokesman said all these and the other planes returned safely.

Chief of State Phan Khac Suu signed a decree today removing nine army generals from the military. They included Lt. Gen. Duong Minh, onetime chief of state.

Others removed, a government spokesman disclosed, included Maj. Gen. Tran Van Don, Maj. Gen. Mai Huu Xuan, Maj. Gen. Le Van Kim and Brig. Gen. Do Mau, all of whom participated with Minh in the coup of November 1963 that brought down the government of President Ngo Dinh Diem.

Nine Officers

The nine officers on the list covered by the decree actually had been on leave for several months for what was described as a period pending retirement. Minh was removed as chief of state last fall by Gen. Nguyen Khanh, who later was ousted.

Proxmire Against Vote Bill Change

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., voted with the majority Monday as the Senate defeated an amendment by Sen. John Tower, R-Texas, to rewrite key sections of the voting rights bill. Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., was not recorded as voting.

Both voted with the majority as the Upper House upheld President Johnson's plan for reorganization of the Customs Bureau by rejecting a resolution to disapprove it.

Limit Set on Voting Rights Bill Debate

Cloture Regarded As Assurance of Early Passage

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate clamped a tight time limit today on further debate on the voting rights bill urged by President Johnson. The action was regarded as assuring the measure's early passage.

The vote to put the Senate's cloture or debating-closing time into effect was 70 for and 30 against. This was three more than the required two-thirds majority.

The debate restriction limits to one hour each senator's speaking time on the bill and all amendments from now on.

Debate on the bill began April 22.

Most of the 100 senators will not make use of their allotted time and leaders were hopeful of passing the bill Wednesday, if not tonight.

Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., a key spokesman for Southern senators who have denounced the bill as unconstitutional, told newsmen he intended to call up 10 or 11 more amendments but would spend only a few minutes on each.

"The way things are," he said, "I don't think I could even get a denunciation of the Crucifixion into the bill."

Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, a major architect of the administration bill, said that except for Ervin's amendments he expected only three or four others to be offered.

Negroes Charge Governments Aid Lawless Activities

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — Negro leaders appealing to the legislature for equal rights charged today that state and local governments in Alabama have encouraged lawless groups to deprive Negroes of their freedom.

A strongly worded petition was drawn up by Negroes seeking the hearing before House and Senate members from several counties, including those in which the civil rights struggle has centered.

Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. returned to Montgomery where he first gained renown — to take charge of the attempt to get a conference with the legislators.

School Segregation Practice Protested

Milwaukee Demonstrators Will Face Traffic Charges Next Week

MILWAUKEE (AP) — A trial of school segregation practice would continue until Monday next week for eleven civil rights demonstrators arrested Monday on charges of obstructing traffic in a school integration dispute.

The group was taken into custody when nine of them formed a human chain in front of one of three school buses scheduled to take Negro pupils to another school. Two others were arrested a few minutes later when they sat down in front of the second bus.

The eleven include Assemblyman Lloyd Barbee, D-Milwaukee, Wisconsin's only Negro legislator and chairman of the Milwaukee United School Integration Committee which staged the protest. The organization had sponsored a one-day boycott of Negro area schools last May.

Barbee said the demonstrators would continue until demands are met by the school board. He termed the demonstrations a protest over predominantly Negro classes from overcrowded schools being kept intact when they are transferred to other schools.

In a statement he said "Intact bussing of children from overcrowded inner core schools is worse than 'de facto' segregation which the Milwaukee school board has refused to recognize and remedy." He said pupils being transferred were "harmed psychologically" and became "objects of curiosity for children in host schools."

School superintendent Harold S. Vincent said the policy of keeping classes intact had been found to be "educationally and administratively sound by the school board's special committee on equality of education opportunity."

After Monday's incident, Barbee said, "The human chain was designed to obstruct the bus, not to get arrested. Of course we were not shocked by the arrest."

The demonstrators were accused formally of obstructing traffic unlawfully by standing on a roadway.

After six hours of police proceedings the group was taken in-

U. S. Deaths In Viet Nam Reach 385

WASHINGTON (AP) — The combat death toll of U.S. servicemen in Viet Nam today reached 385 — equaling the battle deaths in the 1898 Spanish-American War.

The wounded in the Viet Nam war has reached a higher level than in the Spanish-American War.

In 1898, in a war lasting four months, 1,662 Americans suffered wounds.

According to the latest Pentagon figures, reflecting the wounded total through May 17, 2,176 American servicemen have been injured in combat in Viet Nam.

The Viet Nam war and the Spanish-American War totals are only fractional compared to U.S. losses in other wars.

In Korea, there were 33,629 battle deaths. In World War II, 291,557 Americans fell. In World War I, the toll was 53,402.

The Pentagon statistics on the Civil War list only battle deaths for the Union Army and these came to 140,414.

Battle deaths in three early wars also were considerably higher than the present toll in Viet Nam — 4,435 in the Revolution, 2,260 in the War of 1812 and 1,733 in the Mexican War.

Kidnap Counts Are Filed After 2-State Chase

SUPERIOR (AP) — Five charges of kidnapping were filed Monday against a Superior man in the aftermath of a wild two-state police pursuit.

Patrick M. Brennan, 24, was held in Douglas County Jail in lieu of $50,000 bond after waiving a preliminary court hearing.

One of the hostages, Edwin R. Cook, 25, a night clerk at a Superior hotel who was wounded in the gun battles, was listed in fairly good condition today in a Duluth, Minn., hospital.

Brennan was also charged with burglary and discharging dangerous firearms.

State Charges
He was held on state charges of kidnapping Cook, Walter W. Smith Jr., and William Daniels, all of Superior, and Mr. and Mrs. Norman A. Bodine of Duluth, early Sunday.

Superior police opened fire when the car raced through a roadblock at a St. Louis River bridge leading to Duluth. Brennan surrendered after Cook was struck in the head by ricocheting bullets in an exchange of fire with police in Duluth.

Superior Police Chief Charles Barnard said Brennan was on probation from a 1961 conviction for attempted burglary.

Man Says Twin Wanted Brother 'Taken Care of'

Arthur Santini, 42, appeared Monday as a prosecution rebuttal witness in Superior Court.

He said that Tim

"Told me (that) while he was gone to Nicaragua he had given his brother power of attorney and the brother had overdrawn more than $3,000 from a personal checking account."

Santini, a house painter, said Tim was angry and "told me he would like to get rid of his brother and would be willing to pay $5,000."

Santini said he commented at the time that $5,000 didn't seem like very much money.

Later, Santini testified, "Tim was angry again. He said his brother had taken him for more money than he thought. Then he told me he would make it $10,000 to get rid of his brother."

The 22-year-old twins were heirs to the Cudahy meat packing and Pullman sleeping car fortunes. Timothy is charged with killing Todd last Dec. 7.

Gathered Much Data

Wisconsin Scientist Liked Ice Island Life

EDITOR'S NOTE — For m e r Ocean north of Siberia on a bleak slab of ice christened Arlis II.

By TIM WEEKS
BOSTON (AP) — Three years ago, red-bearded Jim Pew of the University of Wisconsin spent the summer in the Arctic last week, Pew was one of 20 men evacuated from the same wandering ice cake, which early this year began moving south toward oblivion in the warmer water of the Atlantic.

In the interim, Pew had enjoyed the comparative comforts of Madison, Wis., but he, like dozens of other young scientists, returned to the austere hamlet of plywood huts on Arlis II.

Why? "I like it," Pew said. A few others brave the ice for financial reasons. For most, however, the main motive is professional advancement.

The investigators gather data in widespread scientific fields for senior scientists in institutions back home.

Arlis II, meaning Arctic Research Laboratory — ARL — Ice Station No. 2, was the most successful of seven floating study camps the United States has operated in the Arctic Ocean.

And it was the most unusual. The three-square-mile Arlis II is called an "ice island" because it is 50 to 70 feet thick.

Arlis II was unique because its topography included a series of ice mounds 30 to 50 feet high, capped by rock and silt pushed onto it by a glacier while still part of the Ellesmere Shelf. A peaked boulder more than 10 feet tall—named the obelisk by the ice island's tenants — crowns one of the hills.

Greenland Current In January, the ice island escaped from the Arctic Ocean, and the Navy — which paid the University of Alaska to operate the station — began planning the evacuation. Caught in the swift east Greenland current, Arlis II moved south at more than 10 miles a day.

By mid-April, the camp was farther south than any previous planned residency on arctic ice. It traveled 300 miles more before the final 20 scientists and camp employees bid it goodbye last week.

Scientific projects were staffed by investigators from the Naval Oceanographic Office, Suitland, Md.; the U.S. Geological Survey, Menlo Park, Calif.; and the universities of Washington and Hokkaido, Japan.

Study Ocean The scientists studied the ocean bottom, collected water samples and measured current. Among other scientists with Pew were Karl Reddell, Vaughan Marshal, Rod Wilson, Ward Senior, Bill McComas, Russell Roseberry, Ron Priebe and Rey Stendell.

Much of the data obtained, while adding to general scientific knowledge, will have no immediate practical application. Some will aid in development of techniques in such popular enterprises as submarine navigation.

In the early days of the station, the men — accustomed to frequent encounters with unpredictable polar bears — carried rifles whenever they ventured a few yards from the huts.

Recreation was necessarily limited, but the men developed one ingenious sport: skiing with a wind-blown parachute. Hooking a strong arctic wind in silk left over from summer paratroops, an islander could ski the half-mile from camp to the island's edge in just over a minute.

Knowles, Huber Agree to Need For New Industry

MADISON (AP)—Republican Gov. Warren P. Knowles and the Democratic speaker of the State Assembly, Robert Huber of West Allis, underscored the need today for a positive approach to Wisconsin's task of attracting new industry.

Knowles told a special committee of the Governor's Board of Economic Development that the state must shift its attitude to provide more jobs for its people.

"We must build from within and then go to the nation with all of our people helping to tell the story that Wisconsin wants new business and industry and that all are welcome," the Governor said.

He told the committee it must adopt a "will do and can do" concept in outlining a program

Huber said he hoped the group's program would consist of more than a general criticism of Wisconsin's current economic climate.

"I have come to the conclusion that it is time to halt the irresponsible assaults that have characterized the Wisconsin political landscape during recent years," he said.

Latin Peoples Not Unanimous In Anger at Dominican Action

BY WILLIAM L. RYAN

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP)—In a broad segment of the population of this key South American nation, U.S. intervention in the Dominican Republic produced a state of shock from which it will take a long time to recover.

Yet there is by no means unanimous ire at the United States. The more violent denunciations of what is called "the Johnson Doctrine" are heard in Caracas, the capital, but spirited defenses of the U.S. action can be heard in other areas.

The intervention has produced an awkward situation for President Raul Leoni's government, which has vigorously been withstanding extreme pressure from Castro-Communist terrorists and has been leading the nation into a new era of prosperity.

The strength of this government does not come from Caracas but from the provinces beyond the capital. Neither Leoni nor his predecessor, Romulo Betancourt, carried the capital in national elections.

Newspaper Critical

Newspapers supposedly representing the government's viewpoint have been extremely and sometimes violently critical of U.S. action in the Dominican Republic. The government has made clear it deprecates the intervention but on the basis that Washington acted alone, without prior consultation with other members of the Organization of American States.

From Washington, Venezuela's ambassador indicated in comments quoted in press dispatches that Caracas favored recognition of Dominican rebel leader Francisco Caamano Deno. In Caracas the government represents itself as taking no sides but simply seeking a "democratic" solution which neither supports nor excludes Caamano.

The Venezuelan government obviously is unhappy about the events in Santo Domingo. It seems to regard them as something dangerously like a death blow to the OAS. It seems to fear the intervention has provided Communist-Castroist elements in Venezuela with an injection of new life after they had been defeated time and again in their attempts to sow chaos.

Lull in Crisis

Informed sources expect the local extremists to lay low for a while until there is a lull in the Dominican crisis, then mount new and more violent attacks.

This apparently is why the intervention is so deeply deplored in government quarters. But in some areas outside the capital, such as Valencia and Maracay, the predominant opinion among people who make politics seems to be that the United States stopped a new Castro victory in its tracks in Santo Domingo and demonstrated that it was ready and willing to act with great power elsewhere.

Some of this sentiment probably can be traced to improved economic conditions in such areas. After constitutional elections had been held successfully, despite Communist efforts to stop them, and the transfer of the presidency had been accomplished in an orderly fashion in 1964, there was a new infusion of confidence which stopped the frightened flight of capital and even brought much of it back for investment. Much of that confidence remains today, despite the events in the Dominican Republic—in some instances even because of that intervention.

However, there are still areas in Venezuela which represent a danger to its stability. While there is a shortage of labor, notably skilled labor, in some places, there are big pockets of unemployment along the coast east of Caracas. Such areas are volatile and vulnerable to Communist propaganda.

Venezuela is one of the key countries marked by international communism—at a Havana meeting last year—for unremitting pressure. This country is the world's largest exporter of crude oil and petroleum products and is the third largest producer of petroleum after the United States and the Soviet Union.

While poverty still is widespread, the future looks good should there be relative peace. Venezuela has more gold and foreign-exchange reserves than any other Latin-American country, and its per capita income is the highest in South America. Its population growth rate, however, is one of the world's highest, adding 100,000 to the labor force each year.

Prospects of meeting this challenge would be good if political stability could be insured. That is why the Venezuelan government dreads any situation which provides new ammunition for the Castro-Communists.

8-Year-Old Tries Rescue, 2 Drown

CHIPPEWA FALLS (AP)—Two eight-year-old boys drowned in the Chippewa River Monday night when one of them tumbled from a small fishing boat and the other dived into the water in an attempt to save him.

The bodies of Larry Johnson and Jodie Lancette, both of Chippewa Falls, were recovered about two hours after a boy on shore told his mother he had seen the others disappear in the stream.

The pair had been on the near the downtown area back of the Northern States Power Co. hydro dam, where the water is some 30 feet deep.

Glaciers Named for Wisconsin Schools

SEWARD, Alaska (AP)—Four Wisconsin schools have icy namesakes now.

Four glaciers, previously unnamed, have been entitled Beloit, Ripon, Lawrence and Marquette after the Wisconsin colleges and universities.

The names were attached by Arthur Gervais Jr., head of the Department of Interior's Geological Survey team in Alaska and son of a retired employee of Beloit College. The ice fields are located in the nearby Blackstone Bay area.

No Serious Damage Showers Wash State, Funnel Cloud Sighted

Scattered showers and thunderstorms washed Wisconsin overnight, with a funnel cloud sighted northwest of Eau Claire early today.

The Weather Bureau said about a dozen trees were uprooted and a few utility poles bowed over, but no serious damage was reported.

The Superior area listed .35 inches of rain in the 24-hour period ending this morning. .34 reported at Wausau. The heaviest thunderstorms were bunched in western Wisconsin.

Temperatures rose, as did the humidity, Monday and today, but a cooling trend was forecast Wednesday as the clouds thinned.

Monday Highs

Highs Monday ranged up to 86 in the Beloit-Rockford area and at Lone Rock, with 84 at Madison and Eau Claire. The Superior area had an overnight low of 48 and it was 54 in Racine, but Lone Rock readings fell no lower than 71.

The nation's high hit 99 at Presidio, Tex., Monday, with the low this morning at 30 at Redmond, Ore.

Showers continued in wide areas in the Plains and Midwest today after an outbreak of stormy weather, including more than a dozen tornadoes.

The twisters hit sections of Nebraska, South Dakota, Kansas, Minnesota, Iowa and Colorado, mostly in rural areas, and no injuries were reported. Six were sighted in Nebraska, including three near Grand Island. Three swept near Sioux Falls, S.D.

Building Torn

A tornado struck the business district of Canby, Minn., tearing down a small building and damaging roofs. A cement block 4-H Club building was flattened by a twister near Thedford, Neb. Farm buildings were damaged in the Kearney, Neb., area by another tornado.

Violent weather was reported in other sections. A tornado hit near Columbia, S.C., and a funnel cloud was reported near Indianapolis. Heavy rain doused New Bern, on the North Carolina coast.

In the West, cold continued in the plateau region. Snow measured six inches at Flagstaff, in north central Arizona, including three inches in a six-hour period. Three inches of snow covered the ground at Bryce Canyon, Utah.

Cool weather continued in sections of the Rockies and New England. It was warm and humid in Midwest areas, the Ohio Valley and the southeastern quarter of the nation. Early morning temperatures ranged from 37 at Lebanon, N.H., to 81 at Key West, Fla.

State Road Toll Adds Two Names Man, 43, Kills Self With Rifle

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The deaths of a child and a visiting Englishman in separate accidents have brought Wisconsin's 1965 traffic toll to 316, compared with 366 a year ago.

Susan Malesza, 2, of Milwaukee, was killed and three members of her family were injured critically Monday night in a two-car accident on the city's South Side. They are her father, Policeman John Malesza, 31, and his daughters, Ann, 7, and Kathryn, 5. Seven persons in the other vehicle were released after hospital treatment.

Pashley W. Rathbone, 70, of Platford, England, was injured fatally Monday when the car in which he was riding figured in a collision with a truck in the Milwaukee suburb of Brookfield.

Thomas A. Murray, 70, of rural Hartford, driver of the car, was reported in fair condition at a Waukesha hospital.

Albert R. Vanbiervliet, 43, route 1, New London, was found at his home Monday night by Outagamie County sheriff authorities, dead of a self-inflicted gunshot wound.

Lts. Jack Zuelzke and Russell Bowers were called to the home by neighbors who had looked through the windows and saw the man lying on a daybed with blood on his face.

Entry to the home was made with a skeleton key. Outagamie County Coroner Bernard H. Kemps said Vanbiervliet had been dead about one week. He had left a note dated May 16.

Kemps said death was due to a massive brain injury from the self-inflicted wound. A .22 caliber rifle was found near the body. The body was taken to the Cline and Hanson Funeral Home in New London.

The Ailing House
Polishing Marble Is Big Chore

BY ROGER C. WHITMAN

Q: We topped a room divider with a nice piece of old marble. It is quite dull. How can it be polished?

A: With plenty of water, a felt pad and some puddy powder (oxide of tin) you can restore a nice high polish. I should also add that you'll need a considerable amount of time and elbow grease as well. You can get the puddy powder at monument yards.

Q: I'd like to put more shine on the asphalt tile in my foyer. Can I use the same paste wax I use around the rest of the apartment?

A: Better to use the water emulsion self-polishing type. The solvents in paste wax can react badly on the asphalt tile, causing it to soften.

Q: I keep looking in your column for how to finish an old brass bed, but I never see it printed. So please tell me how this can be done.

A: If it's a brass finish you want, this is a job for a metal-plating shop. If you wish to color it, first clean the brass frame scrupulously, to remove any traces of grease. Use steel wool and turpentine, which will also roughen the surface slightly and give the finish a better bond. Then apply two or three thin coats of metal enamel. Allow each coat to dry thoroughly before putting on the next.

Q: My son purchased a complete metal-roofed shed as a tool house for his backyard. What kind of foundation will give the best results?

A: A four-inch-thick concrete slab over a six-inch-thick drainage bed of cinders or gravel should be OK. For details on how to do this type of work, write to the Portland Cement Association, either the branch office nearest you or to the main office at 33 West Grand Avenue, Chicago. Free literature is available on a wide variety of concrete projects.

Q: How can I protect my bathroom wallpaper? It is not the washable kind. Could I coat it with varnish?

A: Two or three thin coats of clear varnish should do it, although it will cause a slight darkening.

Housewives Stymied

Selecting Oven Is Not an Easy Task

BY VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

One of the mysteries of home management is the function of major home appliances. Even the man who can repair his own television is lost when it comes to the performance of kitchen appliances.

A woman who is planning a brand new kitchen writes that she is completely stymied when it comes to choosing a new oven and range. "I know about the other things," she says, "but I cannot decide whether to have a wall oven or a range with oven. Is one better than the other aside from appearance and the modern look. Or would either serve equally well?"

There really should be a kitchen center where women could cook for a day on the range and oven they plan to buy, but the next best thing is to study the available equipment and one's own needs.

Standing Oven

Very tall women should prefer the standing oven and the counter-top range, all other aspects being equal. This would eliminate bending and especially facilitate oven cleaning. It also offers more storage space below if planned properly. Oven and range combinations often offer better advantages to women of average height who find bending is no particular problem and that they care only about the functional aspects of the oven. In a modern style kitchen, of course, the wall oven seems to be the most flattering for a clean-line look.

A woman who can have a dishwasher if she wants one, or use the money to buy something for herself (she is contemplating a fur stole) wants to know if the dishwasher will really make her feel that she has "gotten my money's worth." Her husband will even take care of the service problems, she says, but she doesn't know whether the advantages over hand washing will be all that great. There are five in the family.

There are great advantages over washing by hand, if one wants to consider them. These include:

Dishes may be washed in the hottest water possible, much hotter than possible when hands are used.

Towel Eliminated
It eliminates the dishtowel which can become a germ carrier unless a clean towel is used every time.

You need never be caught with a sink load of dirty dishes when unexpected company drops in. You just load the dishwasher and close the door.

You can face a large party without cringing at the thought of the dirty dishes that need to be faced. Some people load the dishwasher as they remove dinner plates from the table for scraping. Some load pots and glasses and run the machine while the meal is in progress (if the dining room is away from the buzz of the kitchen). That way when dinner plates are removed, pots and glasses used before the meal are already clean.

A woman writes that she has had considerable trouble with her washing machine since a long-time drought in her area. "We had not used the machine for four months because of the shortage of water. When I turned it on again I've had nothing but problems, and I don't know whether the layoff period could be responsible. Repair men fix it and then something else seems to happen."

It may be wise to call a plumber to look at the pipes. In another drought area a service man claims to have had a great many problems with washing machines when they were put back in service. He attributes it to the fact that in digging low wells pumps dredged up "a lot of chemicals," so he says, and that these chemicals have coated and clogged up some pipes. All this silt and what not, he says, normally stays at the bottom of the well. But when water is low, it is brought up in large quantities.

PENNEY'S DOWNTOWN APPLETON

OPEN MONDAY, THURSDAY, FRIDAY 'til 9 P.M.

William Spears, Appleton Superintendent of Schools, was a guest at the Saturday noon birthday luncheon of Delta Kappa Gamma members. At the speakers' table above are seated, Mr. Spears and Miss Mary Ann Kalista, Kaukauna, co-chairman of the convention. Standing are Lorraine Dudley, Kaukauna, Omicron chapter president, and Miss Helen Haller, Sequim, Wash., who was banquet speaker and International representative at the state convention.

Teachers' Society Convenes for State Session

Members of Delta Kappa Gamma from throughout the state attended the Sigma State Convention Saturday and Sunday at the Conway Hotel. The Omicron Chapter, including Appleton, Chilton, Forest Junction, Kaukauna, Kiel, Stockbridge, and Neenah-Menasha, was hostess for the state meeting.

Miss Helen Haller, representative of the International, was speaker at the Saturday evening banquet. Noting that Delta Kappa Gamma is the largest organized group of women educators in the world, introduced the theme for the next biennium. It will be 'Creativity', and, Miss Haller noted, will stress the role played by both teacher and child. She advised members that their obligation is not simply to take from a community but to give in return.

Elected to head the group during the next year was Miss Mabel Jensen, Sheboygan Falls. Assisting the new president will be Miss Helen Sweet, Milwaukee, first vice president; Miss Ruth Baker, Eau Claire, second vice president; Miss Mae Seaman, Sheboygan, corresponding secretary; Miss Lorraine Missling, Milwaukee, recording secretary; Miss Gertrude Wilkinson, Green Bay, parliamentarian; and Miss Mary Birr, Milwaukee, historian.

Miss Florence Trainor, Kenosha, is immediate past president; Miss Daisy Acker, Menasha, acting treasurer, and Miss Hazel Marie Healy, Milwaukee, executive secretary.

Announced as winner of the Hazel Duling Scholarship Award was Mrs. Lenore Dickman, Milwaukee. The scholarship will enable her to continue her doctoral studies at the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee.

Serving as co-chairmen of the convention were Miss Mary Ann Kalista and Miss Lorraine Dudley, both of Kaukauna.

Founders and Past Presidents were honored at the Saturday noon birthday luncheon. Above are Miss Alice Nichol, Chilton; Miss Florence Trainor, Kenosha, Sigma State President; Miss Esther Sommerfield, Milwaukee; Miss Bessie May Allen, Stevens Point, and Miss Berenice M. Crawford, Milwaukee. Members of Nu Chapter assisted with table decorations at the Saturday noon program.

A January wedding is planned.

Today's Etiquette

BY LOUISE DAVIS

A NEW TWIST

Dear Louise: Perhaps our experience may inspire other mothers who wish to give parties for their teen age children. For my daughter's 18th birthday, we had 12 boys and girls to our home. After a buffet dinner at 5, I served coffee in the living room where they "exchanged gossip" until 7.

Miss Davis

The came the surprise. I had hired a professional male dancer for $10.00 who taught our young guests to really dance. For two hours they had a ball! The man had them exchange partners to teach them to dance with those of different sizes and heights. The young guests went home very happy and were endless with their praise and thank yous. These fine "students" have realized what dancing really can be. They have given up The Crash, The Bug, The Mashed Potato, The Twist, and others in that category. Oddly enough, this conventional ballroom dancing has made them feel and act like adults. They began to teach other classmates how to dance in a civilized manner. It's going over big. The cost for a teacher is worth it even if it is just to see the young people smile while they dance. It would do your heart good to see the enthusiasm which has lasted these many months.

Louise Davis Answers:

Your idea is great. I'm happy to pass it along to other parents and teenagers. Many mothers are non-plussed when they begin planning parties for their young people.

DRESS SHOPPING

Dear Louise: Do the bride's and bridegroom's mothers pick out their dresses at the same time?

Louise Davis Answers:

The two mothers do their hunting and shopping separately unless they happen to be close friends. Otherwise, the bride's mother selects her own ensemble first, then if she wishes (and she usually does), she gives a general idea to the groom's mother. The color and the style are good guides, but of course, they shouldn't be the same.

Nun to Argue Cases at Supreme Court

BY JAAN KANGILASKI

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — A Roman Catholic nun who used to draft bills for the Michigan Legislature will be admitted today to practice before the U.S. Supreme Court in Washington.

Sister Frances Catherine's sponsor will be Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich.

The nun, 65, who serves as legal adviser to her order, the Sisters of Charity, does not know if she will ever be called upon to argue cases before the highest court in the land. When asked whether she expects to practice criminal law in her black robes, she said: "I don't know. You never know what's going to happen."

Sister Frances — born Frances Catherine Florer — has been interested in law longer than she has been concerned with being a nun.

She was born into a Methodist family at Ann Arbor, Mich., and won a Phi Beta Kappa key while studying law at the University of Michigan. She graduated in 1927 and was admitted to the Michigan bar the following year.

Served in Senate

She married Arthur Royce, who owned a general store at Mecosta, near the center of the Lower Peninsula, and served for a while in the State Senate.

Royce died in 1947. Five years later his widow was converted to Roman Catholicism. She felt drawn to the religious life. Some years later she sold the store and came to the Sisters of Charity, who have their Mother House at Mount St. Joseph, west of Cincinnati overlooking the Ohio River.

Betrothal Announced

MENASHA — Mr. and Mrs. Orville S. Prokash, 429 First St., have announced the engagement of their daughter, Carole Lee, to Howard Robert Michel, West Allis. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert O. Michel, China Lake, Calif.

The bride-elect is employed at Kimberly-Clark Corp., Neenah. Her fiancé is with J. M. Brennan Inc., Milwaukee.

The couple plans to wed Nov. 13.

A Nov. 13 Wedding Date has been set by Miss Carole Lee Prokash, Menasha, and Howard R. Michel, West Allis.

Parents Tell Engagement Of Daughter

LARSEN — Mr. and Mrs. James Anderson, route 1, Larsen, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Kathleen Ann, to Daniel K. Cudworth. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Cudworth, Winneconne.

Miss Anderson is a senior at Winneconne High School. Her fiancé is employed at Morgan Co., Oshkosh.

Kathleen Anderson

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Biel, Seymour, observed their golden wedding anniversary Sunday at an Open House at the Seymour Scout Building. The couple was married May 17, 1915, at the Outagamie Court House, Appleton. They farmed for 30 years before moving to Seymour. They have a son, Eldred, Marion, and one grandchild.

Tell Troth of Miss Lynn Tock, Thomas Junion

The betrothal of Miss Lynn Tock to Thomas Junion has been announced by her mother. She is the daughter of Mrs. Edwin Hamilton, 1025 S. Lawe St., and the late Leonard Tock. Mr. Junion's parents are Mrs. Robert LaSalle, 480 Gordon St., Menasha, and the late Norman Junion.

A June wedding is planned.

Worried Mother Advised How To Cope With Her Concerns

DEAR DR. JONES: Every one, including my husband, thinks that I worry in excess when the children are concerned.

ed But I went through a harder-than-average emotional adjustment as a child and later as an adolescent because of my parents' attitudes. They were well-meaning people and I assume they did as well as they could, being emotionally immature themselves. But they harmed me by their attitude of refusing to acknowledge that psychological problems exist. They said they didn't want to "borrow trouble." Well, I want to make certain my children know that I worry about the possibility that they're frightened or confused or embarrassed.

I suppose it's not uncommon for parents like me to worry too much. Without a good example of my own parents to follow, is there any way I can keep the worry in moderation?

DEAR MRS. E. T.: You don't harm your children by how much you worry about them — only by how much you fail to meet their needs. It's small comfort to them for you to let them know you're aware of their fear, confusion, embarrassment, or other bad feelings. They can't grow up happy and healthy unless you keep such bad feelings to a minimum.

The book whose name is being sent to you can help guide you to doing a good job of being a good mother. It's easier to stop worrying once you can reassure yourself that your worries are groundless.

Working with her will be Mrs. Robert Neumann, Neenah, vice president; Mrs. Carl Hartlich, Two Rivers, treasurer, and Mrs. Palmer Behm, Lomira, secretary.

The group is composed of Lutheran girls of the Wisconsin Synod. They range in age from eight to 13 and carry out a program of indoor and outdoor crafts, nature study and hiking. About 300 girls are involved in the program in this district. Appleton churches which have membership charters are Riverview, St. Matthew, St. Paul and Bethany.

Cities represented at the meeting were Green Bay, Kimberly, Dale, Algoma, Lomira, Watertown, Two Rivers, Neenah and Appleton.

Tentative plans for a July 14 fun day in Two Rivers were made.

A Lovelier You

By Mary Sue Miller

Job-Hunting Cues

To get a first-rate job, the job-hunter must present a first-rate appearance at interviews. A good appearance, along with education and brains, has commercial value to a business organization.

Put yourself in the employer's seat. From that vantage point, which of these three girls would you accept? All are qualified to do the work. But Miss A. looks like an untidy schoolgirl. Miss B. is toggled out for a ball — a costume affair. Miss C. is attractively businesslike.

Of course you would award the job to Miss C. It follows that a job-hunter should rate herself on appearance before interviews. Beat the employer to it!

Top Rating

Top ratings come from wearing clothes that are tailored to business, neither flashy nor drab. A summer suit or dress-do the work. But Miss A. looks with-jacket is appropriate at this season. Accessories follow the tailored line — mid-heel small hat, street shoes conservative handbag, and classic fabric gloves

PERSONNEL DEPARTMENT

As for jewelry, keep it simple and minimal. Avoid putting anything on your head but a small hat.

The rule for make-up and hair is natural and neat. In the grooming department, there can be no slips — no spots or wrinkles on clothing, no scuffs on shoes, no-polish chips or wisps of hair. Freshness is basic to an inspection turnout and to your confidence in it. Thus your poise gets a booster shot, and a poised manner is a job asset interviewers never miss.

Miss Sadie Stern Merel, Chicago, Ill., center, guest speaker at the annual donor luncheon of the Appleton Chapter of Hadassah, visits with Mrs. Irv Koren, Kaukauna, vice president of the group, and Mrs. Arnold Cohodas, president. Miss Merel presented "Dear Me The Sky Is Falling."

Pet Therapy Aid To Mental Health
A pet may literally be man's best friend, especially if the latter is suffering from mental illness. This is the view of Dr. Marcel Heimann, attending psychiatrist at New York's Mt. Sinai Hospital.
Dr. Heimann reports that a pet helped one of his patients overcome a morbid fear of death and a horror of being alone. In another instance a cat, by nature independent, helped an emotionally disturbed person become less dependent.
By serving as a substitute for a relative or a close friend who has died, a dog may keep a deeply distressed person from losing his grasp on reality, according to the psychiatrist.
Dr. Heimann cautions that it is important to match pet to man.

LBJ Hunts for Women to Fill Top Posts

BY FRANCES LEWINE
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson has applied additional heat in his talent hunt for more women in top government jobs.
He's sent out word around the country and through some key women to keep suggestions coming to chief talent scout John W. Macy, head of the U.S. Civil Service Commission.
And, the results were showing this week, with the appointment of the country's first Negro woman ambassador, Patricia Roberts Harris of Washington is to represent the U.S. in Luxembourg. She's the third woman Johnson has named to an ambassadorial post.
Besides that, the President took the opportunity to needle a bit when 10 men were honored in a White House rose garden ceremony as winners of government career service awards.
"Where are the women?" the President wanted to know.
He said he couldn't believe the odds are 10 to nothing in favor of men when it comes to making an award based on merit.
"I think sometimes we men are inclined to think that because we weigh more, are taller and our shoe size is bigger that this is also true of our intelligence and dedication," he commented.
Saying he'd never found this so in his 35 years in public service Johnson declared that promotions and awards in government aren't based on the race, religion, political party or sex of the individual.
From the very start of his administration Johnson has made his position clear.
He summoned Texas Judge Sarah T. Hughes, one of the few women on the federal bench, to administer his oath of office after the assassination of President John F. Kennedy. She thus became the first woman in history to swear in a president.
Only a few months later, in a splash of publicity, Johnson named 10 women at one time to high posts. And, he chose a dinner of the Women's National Press Club to do it.
To date, Johnson has named some 90 women to executive positions, but most of these have been appointments to commissions and advisory bodies on a per diem basis.
High Appointments
His talent tabulators also report that during 1964, 418 other women were appointed by agencies and departments to posts paying $10,000 or more and that 1,553 women were promoted to such high-paying jobs.
The President frequently makes announcements updating these totals and pointing with pride to his accomplishments.
Just how good the record is, though, is hard to say, since comparable figures are not readily available.
Nonetheless, he has scored some historic firsts in putting women into jobs heretofore held exclusively by men. These include naming the first woman member of the Atomic Energy Commission, Mary L. Bunting, president of Radcliffe, the first woman ever named to the Interstate Commerce Commission, Virginia Mae Brown, Pliny, W. Va., and the first woman to serve as assistant secretary of agriculture, Dorothy Jacobson, Minneapolis.
He's also given high posts to Negro women. In addition to Mrs. Harris, the President picked Mrs. Frankie Freeman of St. Louis as the first woman member of the Civil Rights Commission.
And, he promoted Charlotte Moton Hubbard to the highest ranking federal agency post ever held by a Negro woman — deputy assistant secretary of state for public affairs.
Only this month, he put Eileen Hernandez, assistant chief of the California Fair Employment Practices Division, into the $26,000 post as a member of the new Equal Opportunity Commission.

The President has gained some and lost some, too. Two very prominent Kennedy women appointees have resigned their posts.
One was the first woman White House physician, Dr. Janet Travell. She returned to private practice in Washington.
And career diplomat Eugenie Anderson, 55, Red Wing, Minn., the only woman chief of a diplomatic mission behind the Iron Curtain, resigned last December as minister to Bulgaria. She said at the time she would continue in diplomatic service "in any position I am given." But, so far she's been given no new assignment.

Johnson maintained in April, no talent, we can waste no creative power, we can neglect no skill in our search for an women and picking out more open and just and challenging women to serve in this administration.

Will he know enough to stay free?

To stay free a country requires informed citizens. In today's world newspapers are the great information multipliers. They are the foundation of responsible citizenship on which every free nation depends.

LUIS is ten years old, bright but only half-literate. Luis lives in a developing country. It is a country emerging from poverty, ignorance, political instability and disorder, struggling to enter the 20th century world of high living standards, modern technology and free democratic institutions.
In a few years Luis will be an adult. Upon him the future of his country will rest. Luis will depend, as men do in all free countries, on a newspaper to teach him, keep him informed. Luis' country needs newspapers. Newspapers can stir Luis, awaken him to the needs and opportunities which face him and his country. Only to the extent that Luis can emerge from his semi-literacy can he participate in the building of a free and modern nation. One hundred and fifty years ago, when America was an "emerging nation," Thomas Jefferson put it this way: "If a nation expects to be ignorant and free, in a state of civilization, it expects what never was and never will be."
In this struggle to enter "a state of civilization," repeated today in nations of Asia, Africa and Latin America, American citizens have a stake. For ignorance anywhere, as we see every day, threatens freedom everywhere. This year the American Newspaper Publishers Association Foundation, an organization founded to encourage freedom of speech and press around the world, has inaugurated the World Press Achievement Award. Its purpose: to recognize and honor those newspapers in the developing nations of the world which are contributing to the building of informed citizens. These newspapers need encouragement.
Often they operate with obsolete printing equipment. Their personnel are ill-trained. They must frequently combat government hostility. Their readers, often wretchedly poor, lack the education to read or understand. Frequently, it is a struggle for these newspapers to exist at all. Yet the newspaper is indispensable in these countries, as it is in free nations everywhere, because nothing substitutes for the newspaper's capacity to educate, to arouse, to challenge, to inform. A newspaper sets forth the face of its age. It interprets the manifold possibilities which lie before Luis, his nation, or any nation. A free and independent newspaper offers people the freedom to think and to know and thus the capacity to do. The world to stay free needs such newspapers.

The 1965 World Press Achievement Award was given last month to the Yeni Adana of Adana, Turkey.
The Yeni Adana had its birth as an instrument of resistance against French occupation forces in the Adana area. Since its founding in 1918, it has survived periods of revolutionary political change and has participated actively in an era of fruitful social change. It is a small, provincial newspaper of six pages and 1500 daily circulation. But it has spoken with a strong independent voice. In its many days its founder had to flee for his life to a mountain village where he continued to publish with rudimentary equipment and clandestine distribution methods. Various governmental, economic and legal sanctions have been levied against it in 1960 the government closed it.
Despite these conditions and a community 75 per cent illiterate, the Yeni Adana has pursued a bold, independent editorial viewpoint. Expert Can Even Make Bad Plays spade help in the dummy and couldn't expect that much help in view of the strong bidding against him. Still, you can't quarrel with success. Maybe South knew his opponents were groggy and ready to defend like high school girls.

Contract bridge is a game of mistakes. Average players make many; experts make few; but everybody makes them. If you think that experts are exempt from boneheadedness, consider a crucial hand from this year's national team championship in the United States.

West made a bad mistake on his opening lead. When everybody bids as though there were nine aces in the deck you must expect unusual distribution. West should have led a trump to protect his spade tricks. A trump lead and good subsequent defense would hold declarer to nine tricks.

The heart opening lead sacrificed a trick since it permitted South to ruff twice in the dummy. Proper defense would still hold South to ten tricks.

Unbelievable Mistake
Declarer won the first trick in dummy with the ace of hearts and returned the singleton spade. Here East made an unbelievable mistake: He played his low spade instead of putting up the jack.

South covered with the nine of spades, and West had to use the queen to win the trick. West returned a trump, but it was too late. South won and led the king of spades, correctly reading the situation in that suit.

It didn't matter what West did. South was ready to ruff if West played the ace of spades and to discard from dummy if West played low. South lost only one spade and one club, making his doubled contract and winning the match.

NEW YORK — The nation's top women's editors on newspapers and magazines have elected 10 living and 10 deceased American women of the 20th Century from government, science, the arts, and social welfare to the Women's Hall of Fame at the New York World's Fair. Heading the list are Eleanor Roosevelt and Helen Keller.

The names of the famous women who received the most votes from a list of 100 nominees were released Monday by Mrs. Oswald B. Lord, chairman of the Women's Advisory Council to the Fair. Their photographic portraits will be on display in the Women's Hall of Fame Gallery at the official World's Fair Women's Hospitality Center.

In alphabetical order, those nominees were selected by a ballot committee of the Women's Advisory Council, including: Miss Martha Allen, chairman and executive vice president of Camp Fire Girls, Inc.; Mrs. Oswald Lord, Mrs. Margaret Truman Daniel, Mrs. Maryces O. Kelsey, Margaret Mead, Jane McCaffree, director of Women's Activities for the fair, Mrs. Gail Benedict, program director at the Hospitality Center.

Robert F. Moses, president of the fair, will dedicate the Women's Hall of Fame Gallery Thursday after which it will be open to the public weekdays from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Your Problems

Parents Aren't Old-Fashioned, They're Just Late, Ann Says

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Our daughter is 22. She is engaged to a young man we do not know at all well. This girl has finished college and has always shown good judgment — except in the selection of her fiancé.

The young man has an apartment in a bad section of town. He frequently phones our daughter at night and asks her straight to work from the party.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am married to a wonderful guy. He is 21. I am 16.

My parents didn't want me to get married but I hated school and wasn't learning anything. My mind was on Tony all the time. It seemed stupid to try to be a student when I just wanted to be Tony's wife.

Whenever I mentioned marriage my mother went through the ceiling. One day I decided to tell her I was pregnant so she'd have to let me get married.

My plan worked but now I'm afraid I outsmarted myself. Tony and I have been married three months and I am still not pregnant. According to what I told my Mother I should be five months along. She is worried because I'm so thin and she keeps asking me why I haven't gained weight.

If I tell her the truth can she have the marriage annulled? — Girl Who Had To Lie

Dear Girl: Tell your mother the truth — and the sooner the better. The age of consent and laws bearing on annulment vary from state to state. See a lawyer.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope. (Copyright, 1965) to come to his place. She dashes out the door whenever he calls and never returns before midnight — always alone.

My husband and I believe he should not ask her to come across town at night, into a bad neighborhood, and then allow her to go home alone.

Are we old-fashioned? Should we speak up or remain silent? — B. Cal.

Dear B.: You aren't old-fashioned, you're just too late. Your daughter didn't get this way overnight. It's obvious that she is so hungry for male attention that she will do anything to get it.

As parents you have an obligation to speak up. Having spoken up, say no more. A girl 22 must (and probably will) make her own decision about when and where she will see her fiancé.

A young man cannot respect a girl who has no self-respect. He demeans her by asking her to come to his place. And she degrades herself by caving in to his selfish demands.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Will you kindly devote a little space to the proper dress for women who work in offices? It would be a national service.

At this moment I am looking at two girls who appear to be wearing shortened formals. One dress is cut so low that when the office boy drops the mail on her desk he looks at the ceiling.

Another dame is decked out in a sweater decorated with red and green sequins. I practically go blind when the sun hits her.

The girl behind me is wearing a black lace cocktail dress on which she has sewn white collars and cuffs. The black patent leather belt matches her shoes.

And while you're at it, Annie, what do you think of the beehive hairdo for office wear? — View From The 10th Floor

Dear View: Beehives are fine if you happen to have bees. In an office — no. The same goes for sequins, satin and lace dresses, and those low cut numbers.

Girls who wear fussy, party type outfits to work look as if they slept away from home the night before and came

More Stock Exchange Myths Are Exploded

BY SYLVIA PORTER

Let's say you threw a dart at a list of the 1715 common stocks traded on the New York Stock Exchange sometime during the 35-year period between the start of 1926 and the end of 1960 and blindly decided to buy the stock hit by your dart. Let's say you threw two more darts at a giant calendar showing every month between 1926 and 1961 and then blindly bought you stock on the early monthly date late of return came to 98 per cent a year—far more than could have been earned on a highest grade bond or a savings account.

Less Odds

Of course, if you had bought and sold stocks at random during periods of business slump, Fisher emphasizes, your odds on winning would have shrunk considerably. For instance, if you had been an in-and-out during the business downswing of July 1957-March 1958, you would have lost 63 per cent of the time, come out with only 94 cents of each $1 you invested. But if you had had the courage and capacity to hold on and you hadn't sold your stocks until the following business upturn of April 1958-April 1960 the odds would have swung sharply back to your favor. You would have gained 88 per cent of the time, come out with $1.36 for every $1 you invested.

This finding underlines another significant lesson. Don't move in and out, hold on for the longer periods—for the probability is that most of the time, the strong uptrend of the stock market over the decades will bail you out.

Initial Grant

Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Smith, Inc., made the initial grant establishing this permanent center for independent, basic research in securities at the University of Chicago more than five years ago. This is the second of the center's history-making studies paying unanticipated and extraordinary tribute to the stock market's performance as "a market" (not to your experience as an individual investor, which could be something quite different indeed).

Additional studies will be coming out on stock indexes, stock splits, etc., which probably will explode more of our cherished notions. Meanwhile, today I suspect the robot's remarkable record has stunned you. I confess it has deflated me.

U. S. Worried About Absence Of Red Offensive in Laos

BY RENE-GEORGES INAGAKI

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP) — With about two weeks to go before monsoon rains drop the curtain on major military activity in Laos, U.S. and Laotian officials are wondering what happened to the annual Pathet Lao offensive.

The absence of a significant Communist push in Laos so far has puzzled many here. Normally the Pathet Lao and North Vietnamese allies unleash attacks just a few weeks before the rainy season to grab some important piece of territory.

After the monsoons start it is practically impossible for government forces to mount a counterattack.

Lost Tanks

Last year this tactic gained the Communists virtually the entire Plateau des Jarres and bottled up neutralist forces of Gen. Kong Le. He lost almost all of his 40 Soviet-built tanks at the retreat.

The war practically has split Laos down center, dividing it into east and west. The Communists have done little this year to alter the basic frontline.

Western officials here have speculated that the absence of a Communist spring offensive this year might be attributable to these factors:

1. The Communists already have secured the territory that is of importance to them now. These are areas adjacent to Communist China, North Viet Nam, and South Viet Nam for the needed corridor to South Viet Nam.

2. A big offensive would embarrass the Soviet Union, which is co-chairman of the Geneva conference and Poland, which is a member of the three-nation International Control Commission.

3. The Communists believe in ultimate victory in South Viet Nam and presumably think that when this victory is achieved, Laos will be scooped up automatically.

In addition to these considerations the U.S. bombing of North Viet Nam and Laotian air force bombings in Laos made a buildup of troops and logistic supply from North Viet Nam extremely difficult.

Laotian sources particularly credit an action with the present containment of Communist military activity in Laos.

But it was pointed out that since North Viet Nam has an army of more than 350,000 men Hanoi has the potential military ability to launch major operations in Laos.

Estimates of Pathet Lao strength run from 10,000 to 20,000 and the number of North Vietnamese advisers and troops in Laos between 6,000 and 15,000.

but by your dart, sold it on the later monthly date hit by your dart. What are the chances that you would have made money in the stock market by this utterly mechanical, unintelligent procedure?

The chances are you would have made money 78.3 per cent of the time—simply by being a robot trading at random.

Typical Rate

Moreover, if you had theoretically bought and sold all the stocks listed during the 35-year period on every possible combination of monthly purchase-sale dates, your typical rate of return from capital gains and dividends would have been a striking 98 per cent a year. This assumes you reinvested all your dividends, paid a 1 per cent commission on each purchase and sale but didn't pay taxes.

These are two of the key findings of the most comprehensive study ever made of the stock market's performance as a whole, released today by Dr. Lawrence Fisher, associate director of the University of Chicago's Center for Research in Security Prices.

What do these astounding statistics shout to you?

Technical Theories

First they pulverize most of the technical stock investing theories by which so many Wall Streeters swear, and they mock the mythology of stock selecting and investment timing by which so many millions of U.S. investors live. A robot throwing darts at a list of stocks and at a calendar to select its stocks and buy sell times is hardly following a technical theory of investing or intelligently timing the investment transactions. Yet that robot's odds on a profit were better than three to one.

Second they raise deep questions about the widely accepted economic theory that a high rate of annual return implies a high degree of risk. The robot wasn't taking major risks when it made a profit 78.3 per cent of the time on a hypothetical $6,557,518 possible stock transactions during 35 years of violent depression and tremendous boom, global war and uneasy peace. Yet, its typical

Police Arrest 2 Who Admit Theft of Car

Youths Tell They Took Liquor From Valley Fair Store

Appleton police, who observed a reportedly stolen automobile parked for two days in a hospital parking lot, have arrested two youths, 15 and 17, who have admitted their parts in the theft.

The 15 year old youth being held at the Appleton Police Department has admitted he took the car April 27 from a car lot when the car had 19 miles registered on the speedometer. When police found the car, there were 1,981 miles registered.

Police also recovered two cartons of whisky in the car which the two youths admitted they took in a break-in at a liquor store at Valley Fair Shopping Center in Winnebago County Sunday morning.

Detectives Spot Car

The car, which has been listed as stolen since April 27, was seen by a detective at the St. Elizabeth Hospital parking lot two days ago. Detectives began a "stake-out" to see if anyone would show up to drive the car.

Police removed a distributor wire to prevent the car from being driven away.

The two youths were seen near the car about 8 p.m. Monday night but left without trying to take the car. Later the older youth returned to the car, sat in the front seat and tried to start the car. A detective approached and ordered him from the car.

The youth bolted from the car and ran from the parking lot. He was later caught by police as he crossed the Memorial Drive bridge. Police then arrested the 15 year old and questioned both youths at the police station regarding the car theft and the liquor found in the car.

The names of the youths are being withheld due to their ages and the matter is being handled by the police juvenile bureau.

WERB Rule Limits Teacher Voting to Determine Agent

1965-66; No Absentee Ballots

Voting for a bargaining agent for Joint School District No. 10 by newly contracted teachers was approved in principle but blocked in practice in a decision of the Wisconsin Employment Relations Board (WERB) received Monday by the Appleton Board of Education.

Teachers in the district, including Appleton, Towns of Grand Chute, Buchanan and Harrison and part of the Town of Menasha, June 2 will decide whether they want the Appleton Education Association or the Appleton Teachers Union to represent them as negotiating agent on questions of salary, hours and conditions of employment or whether they want no representative.

Ask Inquiry

The WERB ruling said teachers who have signed contracts in the district, but presently are not here employed, have the right to vote for the agent, since they will be affected by bargaining. But the WERB refused to allow absentee balloting, thus almost eliminating the possibility of voting by those who currently do not live in the Appleton area.

National Drivers Test on TV Praised by Police Officials

Appleton Vocational School
Ready for Driver Improvement
Class Starting This Fall

BY RAY PY

Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Law enforcement authorities today gave wholehearted endorsement to a television test Monday which pointed out their driving faults as well as those of an estimated 50 million television watchers.

Police in Outagamie County have agreed the showing "National Drivers Test" on CBS pointed out a need for continued improvement in driver training education. Many police took the test, showing better than average results.

In response to some interest shown by the filming, Carl Bertram, head of the Appleton Adult Education program, said a driver improvement course is being readied for fall presentation in Appleton. He said five Appleton instructors are certified to teach the course.

Course Planned

Course planning was formulated in February when members of The Wisconsin Safety Council met to discuss the forthcoming television show and what should be done to follow through with some of the program's recommendations.

One of the show's recommendations was that viewers interested in a refresher course contact CBS for information where the courses will be held.

Impact of the show, according to a handful of viewers contacted today, was encouraging. Most Viewers said they passed the mark of 50 which showed they were an average driver. Several viewers disagreed with some of the proper answers given for the tests in the series of problems. Most persons said they "guessed wrong" on a question about whether or not it was wise to inflate or deflate tires when going on vacation.

The proper answer of increasing pressure four pounds per tire has met with much disagreement.

Spot Potential Hazard

Most viewers, including many policemen, said they were able to spot almost all of 10 potential hazards shown in a movie film of a slow moving car on a city street. Although most looked for 10 possible hazards, many came up with as many as a dozen and one even had 23 possible hazards.

Most spectacular part of the showing was portions of filmed collisions of cars on test tracks. The cars were being handled by Joey Chitwood stunt drivers and

Human Rights Unit Told, 'Be Ready to Risk Jobs, Friends'

'Must be Committed to Cause,'
Dr. Gilbert James Declares

Members of the Fox Valley Human Rights Council were told criticism.

Monday night they "must be so committed to the cause of human rights they will risk their reputations, jobs, and friends to stand up for what they believe."

Dr. Gilbert James, professor of sociology at the University of Wisconsin-Fox Valley Center and one of the council's founders, told an audience of 100 that the council must have leaders

Refute Racist Ideas

He emphasized that the council exists "if for no other reason than to get the truth to the people in the Valley and refute the racist ideas that are propagated in hate literature sent out by various groups."

"The council should serve not as an instigator as much as a voice for the community," James added.

He said that whether or not the council attains its goals will depend largely on the individual members. "The council won't succeed if it is based on persons who need to be associated with a crusade," Dr. James commented.

"The council needs people raise funds to help finance a new south wing for the present building reported to Starck Monday that drive workers in people who are committed to the pattern, special and general gifts divisions are almost through calling on prospects. However, the in-plant solicitation division has just moved into its intensive phase.

Reporting on other divisions, Starck said the hospital employees' section of the hospital family division is complete with an over-the-top total of over $20,000.

He pointed out that no house-to-house campaign is being conducted, but 40 cooperating industries, businesses and institutions are being contacted in in-plant solicitations, representing 5,000 potential building fund donors.

Records show, Starck said, that while Appleton Memorial Hospital has a rated capacity of 103 beds, daily census reports of between 113 and 123 patients are common. Architects and hospital officials are trying to determine space allocations for various departments in the new wing and planning re-arranging and remodeling of space and facilities in the existing building.

When construction is finished, the hospital's main entrance will be facing south on Grant Street. The additional space will allow between 100 and 150 additional beds.

AHS Students Exploit New Freedom; Not Disciplined to Their Peak Efforts

Principal, Teachers Disagree
About Merits of New System

BY JEAN OTTO

Post-Crescent Women's Editor

Education is the primary reason for the existence of a high school. Anything else that happens there must be evaluated in terms of how it affects scholarship.

This year, Appleton High School, with a new principal, system and its effect on scholarship do not concur. One says that the "students are getting gyped from an education standpoint. The system is bringing out the worst in students instead of the best. The atmosphere is generally one to encourage time wasting and laziness. Instead of studiousness. It hurts both the top and the bottom. The middle just rides along. The best students take advantage of the system, just as do the lower ability ones, although more subtly, of course"

Another says that from his own point of view it has been a better than average year, but whether or not he just got a break on students he can't say. The opportunity for as good or better education has been there this year, all agree, but where there is more freedom there is more opportunity to goof off. It takes more student effort to accomplish the same as under the old system. By sheer confinement the student was previously given the opportunity to study. The freedoms of this year have given him the chance to do other things. If he's home first hour he can stay in bed. If he's out early in the afternoon he can hang around the school or go downtown. The other side of the coin is in developing individual responsibility.

Students Study Less

Teachers believe students study less this year, but not because they don't care. All how, and some will go on to school and should have the tools."

Dominican Rebels Optimistic About Chance of Coalition

U. S. Sees Anti-Guzman Feeling As Block to Settlement With Junta

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP) — The Dominican rebels were optimistic today and the Americans pessimistic about prospects for a coalition government. The junta showed no sign of giving way.

A rebel spokesman said negotiations to form a government headed by Antonio Guzman, Fernandez, minister of agriculture under deposed President Juan Bosch, were "very advanced." Other rebel sources said the talks were nearing "a successful conclusion."

But a U.S. spokesman, noting headed by Antonio Guzman from the junta, said prospects for a quick settlement were still dim. U.S. officials would only say that "a number of conversations have taken place and are continuing."

Explain Negotiations
Sources close to the junta president, Brig Gen. Antonio Ibert Barrera, said Imbert had not been consulted on the coalition government. He called in U.S. Ambassador W. Tapley Bennett Jr. and Jose A. Mora, secretary-general of the Organization of American States, to ask them for an explanation of the negotiations.

Bennett reportedly told Imbert that the United States was not trying to impose a government. However, the United States is known to favor Guzman as a compromise choice.

Imbert has been demanding that the rebels surrender and has refused to step aside in favor of a coalition. The rebel chief, Col Francisco Caamaño Deno, has said he would resign if an agreement is reached on the coalition.

The Washington Post reported Monday night that President Johnson has ordered a team of FBI agents into the Dominican Republic to investigate the extent and nature of Communist influence in the Caribbean nation.

Kenosha Man Enters Innocent Plea to Conspiracy Charge
MILWAUKEE (AP)—Bruce A. Helwig, 48, of Kenosha entered a plea of innocent Monday in U. S. District Court to a charge of conspiracy in an alleged million-dollar insurance scheme. Judge Kenneth Grubb set no date for trial.

Helwig and four others were named in a grand jury indictment in April charging them variously with mail fraud and conspiracy.

Franklyn M. Gimbel, an assistant U.S. attorney, said the group had sold more than $1 million worth of insurance providing protection for hard-to-place risks.

He said claims totaling thousands of dollars are pending and there are apparently no assets. Three of those indicted are in Tel Aviv, Israel.

The fifth, Charles W. Bray, 35, of Glenview, Ill., was granted 30 days Monday in which to file motions before entering a plea.

Bolivia Junta, Miners Agree To Cease Fire

At Least 19 Killed, 70 Wounded in Eight Days of Tin Strike

LA PAZ, Bolivia (AP) — Bolivia's military junta and its tin miners agreed Monday night to a cease-fire calling for an end to the miners' eight-day-old strike and withdrawal of troops from the mines.

The truce was signed after a battle between government forces and workers in the industrial suburbs of La Paz which continued into Monday night. At least 19 persons were killed and more than 70 wounded.

Heavy casualties were reported in mining centers south of the capital where miners tried to repel troops under government orders to occupy the state-owned mines.

The cease-fire agreement was signed by Gen. Alfredo Ovando Candia, the armed forces commander, and leaders of the Bolivian Drivers Union who have been mediating the dispute between the junta and the leftist miners union.

Radio Mendez in La Paz said representatives of the two factions will meet in the capital to widen the agreement. The broadcast said it now stipulates that:

1. The miners will call off the strike they began May 17 to protest deportation of their leader, former Vice President Juan Lechin.

2. The junta will pull its troops out of tin mines they have occupied and stop their advance on other mining centers.

Bloody Riots
Bloody rioting erupted in La Paz last week following the start of the strike, and the junta sent 17 labor leaders into exile in Paraguay to join Lechin.

An armed band of gunmen tried to assassinate the president of the junta, Lt. Gen. Rene Barrientos, Saturday at the Kami mining center 140 miles south of La Paz. He escaped injury but one of his guards were killed. Four gunmen were captured.

The government ordered the army to occupy the mines Sunday after the miners refused to return to work. Decrees were issued reducing wages of all mine workers and dismissing 27,000 workers from the state mining corporation's payroll.

Troops began occupying one mine after another north and south of the capital, freeing a number of the 70 hostages the government said were being held by the strikers.

The fighting spread Monday from the mine centers to the suburbs of La Paz, where officials estimated that 300 snipers were holed up. Air Force planes strafed the hilltops around La Paz in an effort to flush out the snipers.

Fears Link With Oswald

Ruby Says Stimulants Goaded Him to Killing

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Jack Ruby told Monday how he took numerous stimulant pills before killing presidential assassin Lee Harvey Oswald and then expressed fear that he and Oswald would be linked in the assassination.

"To the American people and the world . . . I'm going to be branded a part of a conspiracy with Oswald," said Ruby. "You're going to forget how I felt about the beloved President Kennedy. There has been so much torment, so much hardship."

Ruby's discourse, wandering from topic to topic and punctuated with emotional pauses, came during a hearing in which attorney Joe Tonahill, who was on Ruby's trial defense team, was taken out of the case for Ruby's forthcoming sanity hearing.

Tonahill's removal was ordered by Judge Louis T. Holland, Montague, Tex., who said the question of Ruby's counsel would be settled by the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals following the sanity hearing.

Ruby, his face pallid from over a year in jail, said he took 30 antibiotic pills and others that "stimulate you and make you want to do positive things" after awakening on Sunday, Nov. 24, 1963, the day Oswald was shot to death.

He said he brooded about the Kennedy children being fathered by the state.

County Sheriff Thomas H. Forsyth said Monday after bloodhounds led searchers to the bank of the Wisconsin River. The stream is some 200 yards from the home of Kirk Brost, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Brost.

Ten boats were used Monday in dragging operations and Forsyth said he planned to continue dragging through the week if the body is not found.

Youth Corps Gets Flood Work Pay

MADISON (AP) — Today is payday for participants in the Neighborhood Youth Corps disaster program operating in seven Wisconsin counties hard hit by spring tornadoes and floods.

A total of $17,546 will be paid to 827 youngsters ranging in age from 16 to 21 who are working on cleanup projects. The program is financed by a $1.9 million federal grant.

Workers in Crawford County will receive the largest amount — $6,234. Other counties receiving funds are Buffalo $546, Green $1,586, Grant $3,760, La Crosse $1,230, Pierce $2,491 and St. Croix $1,699.

The youths work with the various communities in helping to repair sewage systems, remove mud and silt from public buildings, clear drainage ditches, clean up debris and perform clerical duties.

Knowles Signs Federal Funds Request for Industrial Commission

MADISON (AP) — Gov. Warren P. Knowles put his approval and signature Monday on the State Industrial Commission's request for $6.8 million in federal funds to operate the unemployment compensation and employment service divisions for the 1965-67 biennium.

The funds come from appropriations of taxes paid by Wisconsin employers covered by the federal unemployment act and do not provide for any new programs.

Whites Seek Ouster Of Bogalusa Mayor

Civic, Religious Leaders
About 150 then gathered outside the office of John Gallaspy, a lawyer who is chairman of the Community Affairs Committee, made up of business, civic and religious leaders.

Gallaspy declined to issue an immediate statement. As the crowd broke up, one of them told a newsman: "We're not giving this town to James Farmer."

Farmer is national director of the Congress of Racial Equality, which backs the Bogalusa Civic and Voters League in its civil rights drive. He made his latest appearance here at a rally Sunday night when he praised Cutrer's attitude.

A spokesman for the whites said the rally's main purpose was to protest the "meddling in the affairs of Bogalusa" by three volunteer mediators.

The mediators, men of statewide stature and political friends of Gov. John McKeithen, stepped into the situation when it teetered on the edge of violence. They were successful in setting up negotiations between city officials and Negro leaders.

The Klan distributed leaflets criticizing the three — Victor H. Bussie of Baton Rouge, president of the Louisiana AFL-CIO; Camille F. Gravel, Alexandria lawyer and former Democratic national committeeman; and State Sen. Michael O'Keefe, New Orleans.

City May Buy Old Outagamie Airport

Mitchell Tells County Executive Committee of Appleton's Interest

The City of Appleton may be interested in buying the entire 182-acre airport property, Mitchell said. He asked if the price was open for negotiation.

Appraisal Being Made
The action of the city delegation took the county group somewhat by surprise. It said a complete appraisal of the airport property, updating the 1960 appraisal which listed it at $3,000 per acre, was being made and would be completed by next Tuesday.

Mitchell said the city would want to consider any further figures the county had to offer, or the airport and that he would bring the matter before the council when it meets June 2.

Officials said land values were fairly stable but development costs continue to increase. At one point, Supv. Sylvester Esler (Appleton-18th) said the city might be able to get the airport for about $325,000.

"And, it could be more, too," Fulcer said. He explained that a profits from the sale would be applied to the new county airport in Town of Greenville.

Crosswind Runway
The county plans to build a crosswind runway sometime this fall, the committee said, up for the summer recreation program according to James Gertz, recreation director.

Supv. George Dietz (Appleton-13th) said the estimated cost of the runway and taxiway was about $750,000.

County officials said they had about $400,000 remaining from an original bond issue and that much of it was earmarked for a new airport administration building.

No one had the exact answer as to when the city could take possession of the old airport property — whether buying it all or 18 acres. The airport remains open and the new airport is also in operation.

However, the new port lacks certain navigational aids which are to be installed soon. Litigation also is pending in a U.S. Appeals Court at Chicago. The outcome might affect the closing status of the old airport.

Damage Is Found at Day School

MENASHA — Damage to the Winnebago Day School caused by vandals Saturday night may far exceed early estimates.

Mrs. Armon Chappelle, principal, said no dollar estimate would be made until final inspections can be made after the close of school for the summer.

Additional damage was discovered during an inspection by authorities and insurance adjusters Monday afternoon. Classes were cancelled Monday but were resumed today. A year-end student program scheduled for Friday afternoon will be held as scheduled, Mrs. Chappelle said.

A further check Monday revealed that water soaking through the floor caused the plaster to fall from the ceiling.

Persons interested in supervised play and special swimming pool hours for handicapped children are to contact the recreation director to permit setting up a special program.

Weather permitting, the swimming pool will open June 5. Goodyear officials said today with the pool to be open for total investment in land, building and inventory would be 5-15 and 6-15 to 8:45 p.m. close to the quoted figure. The Swimming lessons will be given 40 by 110 foot store will have in the morning. Registrations about 7,000 square feet of sales for the lessons are being accepted at the recreation office.

City youngsters 18 or under may pick up passes for free afternoon swimming at the pool from May 29 through 31 or during the first week of June Out-of-city.

Greater floor damage may have been caused by the water than had first been believed. Extensive damage also may have been done to the gymnasium floor.

Many classroom materials, including books, are still missing although the regular class also will service wholesale and schedule is being followed, Mrs. Chapelle added.

$1,000 Damage to Greenville Home Traced to Youngsters

Approximately $1,000 damage smashing an electric meter, to a recently-constructed home breaking and chopping the side-near Greenville being readied for sale has been traced to five youngsters, none older than six years.

Sheriff Lt. Jack Zuelzke said 4 and 5 years old, and two boys, the young people admitted 4 and 5 years old, viewed the chopping holes in cabinets, damage with their parents and floors, plaster work, with an sheriff investigators Monday axe, breaking windows, throw reason for the vandalism.

Little Chute To Get New Post Office

LITTLE CHUTE — Sen. William Proxmire (Dem.) announced Monday that an improved post office building is being sought for the village.

The new building may be located on either side of Main Street between Madison and Jackson streets or on either side of Pine Street from Main Street to Church Street.

The site is to incorporate 4,200 square foot of space with interior dimensions of the building being 2,401 square feet of work space and a loading platform of 216 square feet. The present building, leased in 1956, has 1,577 square feet of inside work space and a 64 square foot loading platform, according to Norbert Kilsdonk, postmaster.

Lease on the present building expires in March of 1966, Kilsdonk said. Postal receipts in 1956 totaled $15,795 compared to $32,207 last year, indicating the postal business in the community has more than doubled in the last eight years. Kilsdonk felt ample parking facilities would be an important part of the new location.

The Post Office Department will advertise for bids June 7 and will open bids July 9.

Hearing Set in Airports Case

CAB Wants Court To Reconsider Its Stand on Outagamie

CHICAGO—Judges of the 7th District United States Circuit Court of Appeals ruled Monday afternoon that they will hear oral arguments on the Civil Aeronautics Board (CAB) petition for the court to reconsider its recent decision involving Outagamie County and North Central Airlines.

The court ruled in late April that North Central must serve Outagamie County at its new airport, at least until the time when the court announces its decision on appeals by the State of Wisconsin and three state communities on the CAB's regional airport decision.

The CAB, last January, stayed the effective date of its airport consolidation offer until after the court disposes of the appeals, provided the "status quo" is maintained.

However, when Outagamie County attempted to close its old airport and open its new facility in the Town of Greenville, the CAB approved a North Central petition to suspend service at Appleton and to begin serving the entire Fox Valley area at the Winnebago County Airport in Oshkosh. Outagamie County got the court to overrule the decision, but the CAB is now seeking a reversal.

The oral arguments will be heard "on motions only" at 9:30 a.m. June 2 in a 27th floor conference room in the federal building at 219 S. Dearborn Street.

Mental Illness Has Become Public Business, Doctor Says

UW Psychiatry Department Head Addresses Lecture in Appleton

Mental illness has become the public's business, the head of the University of Wisconsin psychiatry department said in an education and information lecture at Lawrence University Monday night.

Dr. Milton Miller, addressing about 100 persons in Youngchild Hall, said a gap has existed between the profession and society, but this is closing rapidly.

Dr. Miller's was the first in a series of lectures sponsored by the Outagamie County Community Guidance Center.

"Relatives, friends and the patient himself have more to say about what is going to be done in the patient's regard," he said. "Our citizenry has reclaimed its hospitals and our women have volunteered to serve in them."

Also influencing psychiatry are more effective tools for the clinician to work with, such as electrical shock therapy, tranquilizers, and other medications.

Third Factor
A third factor is that the role of the psychiatrist is increasingly related to developments in other mental health professions, he said.

New professional roles are emerging, he said. Clinicians are embarking upon research careers in basic sciences. And from the opposite direction, more scientists work with psychiatrists to acquire a broader appreciation of clinical problems.

In spite of the great changes certain problem areas still are found in psychiatry's relationship to society, said Dr. Miller. "It is society which finally decides who is going to be labeled as mentally ill, and conflicting political philosophies hold to variant opinions as to what behavior is sick and what behavior is bad."

Authorities Praise Test For Drivers

illustrated examples of highway incidents which lead to road accidents.

Viewers followed the simple test procedures at home, in the Appleton Fire Station where a meeting of the Fox Valley Area Safety Council was interrupted for the showing, and at a local downtown tavern where patrons at the bar jotted down answers to the questions on paper provided by the bartender.

Spirited Competition
Most viewed the show at home where spirited competition was aroused between husband and wife over test results. Those questioned, all men, admitted they outdid their wives, but at least one admitted he "cheated a little."

Viewers matched their skills with 2,000 pre-selected drivers who took the tests in Chicago, Los Angeles, New York and Philadelphia. Using computers, the results were learned as quickly as they were turned in, and several conclusions were drawn within the hour.

Those showing the best skill were drivers who had not finished high school, while professional people showed a lack of driving skills, the computers showed. Best area for drivers was Chicago.

Bertram said in the fall program, much of the material, facilities and testing procedures used in the television show will be followed. He said the course will run eight hours and would be available for all licensed drivers.

Emphasis, he said, would be on rules of the road, laws and defensive driving skills.

Milwaukee Man Pleads Guilty in Outagamie Court

Woodrow L. Durovy, 47, 8001 W. Allerton Ave., Milwaukee, was fined $175 and costs in Outagamie County Court, Branch 2 Monday where he pleaded guilty to a charge of driving while under the influence of alcohol. He was arrested early Monday on State 47 at County Trunk S by county police.

County Judge Gustave Kelwer ordered Durovy's driver's license revoked for one year. He tested .18 on a Breathalyzer examination. A reading of .15 is generally considered evidence of intoxication.

Teachers Concerned About Adverse Effects on Youths

sake, is also disrupting. General attitude and morale have affected the students' willingness to work.

One teacher decries the lack of a teaching climate. The crux is like after spring vacation, when he wanted to get back and dig in. By noon of the first day he says he wanted to scream at the whole situation. During the five periods a day he teaches, he claims the first 10 minutes and last 15 are hopeless. He under the direction of Gordon worried all year about when the lack of discipline and control he would spill into the classroom and now it has. It has seriously affected school work.

Students Lose Respect
Except in classes where the teacher personally demands consistently high quality from his students, faculty members feel that students have lost respect both for teachers and for each other. There's no emphasis on general quality of education. Lack of consistency in what's expected bothers the students too. "Teachers have to work as individuals," they say. "Each one has to make his own rules. The only way they're united is on a list that says 'Student-centered is fine.'"

"Student-centered is fine," says a teacher, "as long as it's centered on his education influence of intoxicants and was a good year for many, the bright ones and many of the seniors have been able to go ahead on their own. He expressed dismay at what it will be like when the seniors, and then the juniors, have graduated, and the school has three classes of students who have never known any other system.

The difficulties in providing a good education this year apparently do not center around curriculum or quality of teaching or textbooks. Teachers say they have closed their classroom doors and tried to carry on with as much discipline and stress on learning as ever. They create their own small world within the broader world of the school and try not to let that outer world affect their own efforts.

But this is not entirely possible. Skipping class keeps some student's from keeping up on what's being taught. Tardiness, often for its own

Beatles Have Made It, In 1966 'Who's Who'

Jingo Thinks Spirit of Freedom-Loving J. P. Zenger May be 'Shook' a Little

BY JINGO
Convinced that the Beatles are stars who will blaze for some time, rather than just meteors, the editors of 'Who's Who in America' will introduce them in the next edition of this "discriminating" book.

"We had deferred our decision to determine if the Beatles are here to stay," said Kenneth N. Anglemire, president of the A. N. Marquis Co., which publishes the famed biographical directory of U. S. and foreign notables.

"Now we're convinced they're stayers — at least for the period of our 1966-67 edition."

Anglemire emphasized that the mop-headed foursome — like all other individuals in "Who's Who in America" — were selected because of genuine achievement, not just because they're celebrities.

He listed these evidences of achievement:

1. "The verve, freshness and rollicksome humor of their music and antics are refreshingly creative as well as commercially advantageous. Our new policy is to recognize the unusual in the arts."

2. The Beatles have been praised as a deterrent to juvenile delinquency — helping youngsters work off the energies and relieve the boredom that often lead to misconduct.

3. Beatle John Lennon has proved himself a writer of talent. The London Times Literary Supplement hailed his "In His Own Write," published last year, as a "remarkable" phenomenon in its nonsense sketches and verse.

Not Upstarts
Anglemire also noted that the Beatles are not mere newcomers. Lennon was instrumental in setting up a skiffle-jazz group as far back as 1955. He soon was joined by James Paul McCartney...

Pointing out that "Who's Who in America" is fundamentally a reference book, Anglemire observed that the Beatles are of reference interest to broad-minded adults as well as single-minded youngsters.

Jingo can only say this about "Who's Who in America": It is good that John Peter Zenger, Lovejoy and the rest can't know what is being done with their hard-won freedom of the press.

New Musical On Broadway Tuneful Fable

BY WILLIAM GLOVER
NEW YORK (AP) — Broadway's special skill in musical comedy is smartly paraded in "Half a Sixpence," newly arrived at the Broadhurst Theater.

The tuneful fable about a rags-to-riches lad was mildly pleasant when viewed by this observer early in its original London incarnation two years ago. Main lure was Tommy Steele, an ex-rock 'n' roll favorite.

Steele, wondrously genial, limber and versatile, is back to stop the show. But sharing the spotlight with him now are the imaginatively spirited dances which Onna White has inserted.

The general tone of the affair has been spruced up by director Gene Saks.

In the story, adapted by Beverley Cross from an H. G. Wells novel, Steele enacts a Victorian-era draper's apprentice who learns about true versus false love while gaining and losing an inheritance. Don't worry, there's a happy ending.

The genially sentimental score was written — words as well as music — by David Heneker. Among its operetta-like melodies are four numbers which Miss White has choreographed into rousing routines for a comely ensemble of precision hoofers.

Steele remains onstage almost constantly, popping expertly in and out of the dances besides attending to major vocal and acting needs. Main assistants include Polly James and James Grout of the West End company; and Eleanor Treiber, a lovely local recruit who heads the femme dancers.

"Half a Sixpence," which used to be mostly a one-man show, adds up now to a full measure of warm-hearted, colorful, toe-tapping entertainment by all hands.

Terrors Win Third Relays Title in Row

Register 35 Points, 7 Ahead of Runnerup West; 7 Records Fall

BY JIM HARP
Post-Crescent Staff Writer
GREEN BAY—Coach Keith Kohlman and his Appleton High School track team pulled another surprise out of the magic hat Monday night by sweeping to a victory in the Fox River Valley Conference Relays held at the East High Stadium.

The Terrors piled up 35 points in a well-balanced meet which saw seven conference records fall and another tied.

Green Bay West was runner-up with 28 points, followed by highly-regarded Sheboygan North with 25½. Oshkosh was a close fourth with 25.

Third Straight
The win was the third straight in the relays for the Appleton squad and gave the Terrors a sweep of the conference outdoor honors this spring, since they annexed the regular loop crown a little better than a week ago. It was the 10th time in history that AHS has won the relays crown. Appleton has now won eight of the last nine major

Rams Complete Sweep, Sign Top 7 Draft Choices

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Los Angeles Rams have scored a sweep by signing the seven players picked in the first seven rounds of the National Football League draft.

Prominent among them, a Rams spokesman said Monday, is Jack Snow, the Notre Dame end whom the Rams got from the Minnesota Vikings. Snow had been the Vikings' first-round choice.

The other six are Clancy Williams, back, Washington State; Fred Brown, linebacker, Miami, Fla.; Mike Strofolino, linebacker, Villanova; Doug Woodlief, linebacker, Memphis State; William Rex Harrison, end, Elon College; and Anthony Guillery, linebacker, Lamar Tech.

Lolich Records Sixth Win for Tigers

BY HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer
Bill Freehan thinks like a pitcher.

If he thought like a batter, the Chicago White Sox pitching staff might really be in trouble.

As it was, Freehan left White Sox Manager Al Lopez vaulted staff in a shambles Monday night, belting two home runs, one a grand slam, as Detroit rolled to an 8-3 victory over Chicago.

Freehan's slugging helped the team's Mickey Lolich in his scoring sixth victory of the season and, if you take Lolich's word for it, League. New York thumped his batterymate's catching Cleveland 15-5 and Baltimore didn't hurt the effort nipped Washington 2-1.

"I like working with him," Freehan's third inning shot says Lolich, who won 18 last year. "He knows my pitches, for the 23-year-old catcher who what I like to throw, and when I am in his third full season with the Tigers Bill, a $125,000 bonus, batted 300 and was one of only five American League batters to reach that figure last season.

Freehan's progress was slowed somewhat this spring when he suffered a muscle spasm in his back during training. He missed about three weeks of work and then wore a brace to support his back after returning to the line-up.

The Yankees also used the long ball to batter Cleveland Joe Pepitone ripped a grand slam homer and Tommy Tresh added a two-run shot as New York exploded for its biggest run output since August 1962.

Mathews' 3-Run Homer Paces Braves to 4-3 Victory Over Giants

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The Milwaukee Braves collected only four hits Monday but one of them, a three-run homer by Eddie Mathews, was enough to overcome the San Francisco Giants 4-3 before 6,643 paying customers.

The victory snapped a three-game losing streak and enabled Hank Fischer to maintain his mastery over the Giants. He hasn't lost to San Francisco in three decisions and shut them out twice last year. Fischer thus earned his first triumph of the campaign against no losses.

Mack Jones made a sparkling defensive play in the fourth when with bases loaded Hal Lanier smashed a sinking liner to right field. Jones completed a diving, somersaulting catch to end the inning after the Giants had collected a pair of runs.

San Francisco starter Bob Shaw, a Milwaukee alumnus, gave up only hits before leaving for a pinch hitter in the seventh. Fischer was tagged for six hits before leaving with a sore throwing elbow with one on in the ninth. Relief help came from Billy O'Dell and Clay Carroll, who yielded no hits.

The losers played without Willie Mays in the field. The star outfielder hurt his arm slightly Sunday in Houston making a throw and it stiffened up on the plane ride home. He was a

Spahn and Lary Pitch Mets to Twin Triumph

New Yorkers Down Phillies, 6-2, 4-1; Cards Edge Dodgers

BY MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer
A juvenile delinquency expert is no match for a pair of elderly one-armed bandits.

As a result, the New York Mets continue to lead the Pittsburgh Pirates in the National League's Battle of the Bottom.

The Mets, out of their familiar cellar spot for more than two weeks, took two games from Philadelphia Monday night, 6-2 and 4-1, behind two pitchers whose combined ages total 78 years.

The Pirates lost ground to the Mets even though they won their fourth consecutive game, defeating the Chicago Cubs 6-4. Donn Clendenon, the juvenile authority, continued his torrid hitting pace, collecting three hits in four at-bats.

Manager Casey Stengel, 74, sent out Warren Spahn, 44, and Frank Lary, 34, to try and halt the Mets' six-game losing streak. To do it, they had to beat the best the Phillies had to offer — Jim Bunning and Chris Short.

They did — left-hander Spahn by scattering 10 hits in the opener and right-hander Lary by hurling a one-hitter through eight innings in the second game.

8-Game Streak
Clendenon, meanwhile, brought his eight-game streak to 16 hits in 31 trips to the plate for a .516 average. His over-all mark has rocketed 56 points to .331.

A graduate of Morehouse College, Clendenon worked this past winter in the office of the district attorney of Allegheny County (Pittsburgh) as a member of a special committee on juvenile delinquency.

Referring to the delinquency problem, Clendenon says, "We're in trouble."

So are the Pirates. They're in last place, 1½ games behind the Mets.

Elsewhere in the NL, St. Louis defeated Los Angeles 6-4, Cincinnati stopped Houston 5-2 and Milwaukee edged San Francisco 4-3.

Spahn evened his record at 4-1 in the opener as Ed Kranepool drove in three runs with a two-run homer in the first and a fifth-inning triple. The loss for

Tom Veech Tops State Qualifiers

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Four professionals of the Milwaukee area captured top spots at Meadowbrook Country Club Monday in the area qualifying round for the U.S. Open golf tournament.

Tom Veech turned in the low score of 70-69—139, three under par.

He was followed by Randy Quick, 71-69—140; Eddie Davis, 74-67—141, and Steve Bull, the state Open champion, 73-75—148.

Amateur Tom Larkin of the host club was selected as first alternate on his round of 78-73—149. Bobby Brue, former Wisconsin Open king and now a pro at Northbrook, Ill., shot 73-76—149 and was picked second alternate.

Liston Rules 13-10 Favorite to Beat Clay in Title Bout

Few Experts Expect Fight to Go 15-Round Limit Tonight

BY MURRAY ROSE
LEWISTON, Maine (AP) — In a television studio named the Central Maine Youth Center, heavyweight champion Cassius Clay and Sonny Liston will meet again tonight in a 15-round title fight which will be telecast live to millions in North America and Europe.

Reports that there may be an attempt on Clay's life by followers of the slain Black Nationalist leader Malcolm X have increased interest in this controversial return bout but failed to cause any noticeable stir at the ticket office.

There may be only 3,000 paying customers in the high school hockey rink when Clay, a 13-10 underdog, steps into the ring at 9:30 p.m., EST, to defend his crown against the man he dethroned in a controversial fight in Miami Beach 15 months ago.

Many Questions
But, through the magic of closed circuit television and the Early Bird satellite, millions of fans will get a chance to see these two strapping fighters strive to answer the many questions people have been asking since the unbeaten Clay became champion on Feb. 25, 1964.

On that night, the brash young gladiator from Louisville, Ky., ascended to boxing's most prized throne when the formidable Liston, a prohibitive 7-1 favorite, quit on his stool after the sixth round of a strange contest.

At the end of the fourth round Clay, claiming he was "blinded" and unable to see, wanted to quit. At the end of the sixth, Liston, blood streaming from a wide and deep gash under his left eye, and complaining that his left shoulder was injured, yielded his title.

They were supposed to have met in Boston last November but an emergency hernia operation for Clay forced a postponement and then a dispute over the promotional background finally sent the fight out of Boston to this textile town of 40,000.

So, at last the two bitter rivals appear set to have it out in the ring in a town still surprised at getting boxing's greatest attraction.

258 Locations
At prices of $25, and $100, only 3,000 or so spectators may pay about $150,000 for the live bout, but the closed circuit telecast to 258 locations in North America, the Mutual Broadcasting System's radio broadcast, the Early Bird transmission to Europe and other extras may make this a $5 million dollar promotion.

Each fighter will collect in the neighborhood of $600,000 and up for a battle that few experts expect to go the limit.

The 23-year-old Clay earlier had predicted he would flatten his rival in nine rounds, three rounds, and "early." On the eve of his first defense, however, he would not predict any round.

"I'm just going to beat that tired old man," said Clay, winner of all 20 of his pro fights, 16 by knockouts.

"I'm gonna get him on a knockout," said Liston, listed as 31 years old but believed to be at least five years older. "I made a mistake I ain't gonna make again. I got new plans. If he comes to fight, it'll be short. If he comes to run, I'll have to trap him."

"I'm gonna let him come," said Clay. "And when he does cheering on the Fox Cities Foxes to a 6 to 1 Midwest League victory over the Dubuque Packers (that's right) razzing the umpire and giving Elmer Valo a hard time.

The Foxes moved out of the Midwest League cellar into a tie for eighth place as they ran their winning streak to three games — their longest of the season. At 7:30 p.m. today, they return to Appleton's Goodland Field to meet Dubuque in the final game of their home stand. It will be both "Ladies Night" and "Knothole Club Night."

It was the first organized baseball game in Green Bay since 1960... and the scene brought back vivid memories of the Bluejays of the Wisconsin State League and the Dodgers of the Three-Eye League.

The audience, dotted with many "regulars" from the old days, was highly spirited and immediately adopted the Foxes as the home team.

It took a little yelling and groaning to get the Foxes into a lead as Larry Connell, the Foxes' leading pitcher, and the Packers' Bob Ceresse, who was making his first start, tangled in a stiff duel of righthanders for four innings.

3-Run Rally
Fox Cities broke loose in the fifth for three runs and that turned out to be enough. The Foxes wrapped two hits, two walks around costly double-play error for the three runs. They added a single run in the sixth on Dick Hickerson's long triple to center after walk and two in the eighth on a single and four walks.

The Foxes managed only six hits including two by Hickerson, but the generous Packers chipped in four errors and nine walks. The Packers employed four pitchers and the crowd, via its noise, tried to make up

Ward Plays Unfamiliar Role as '500' Sideliner

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Rodger Ward, the U.S. Auto Club's all-time point leader who can't remember when he last failed to qualify for a championship race, is standing on the sidelines at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway for the first time in 15 years.

The 44-year-old Ward was the 34th fastest qualifier when time trials for the 500-mile classic ended Sunday night. Only the top 33 cars will start the race.

"I can't remember the last time I failed to qualify for a championship race," Ward said dejectedly. "I think it was back in 1950 at Springfield and everybody told me they had me a Packer Manager Valo's mind on when to remove same. The former major league outfielder made half a dozen trips to the mound to talk to his hurlers and on each return to the dugout the fans "hip hip hipped" his steps, which reminded oldtimers of Eddie Stump and Joe Hauser.

The game was loaded with fine fielding plays, and the best individual effort was made by Ron Manders, the Pack's right fielder, in the fourth. He caught Steve Myhrall's fly in deep right and then rifled the ball to catcher Don January who tagged out Bob Connolly trying to score from third after the catch. It was the only double play of the night.

Janne Whiffs 2

Producing his third victory—and the Foxes' third in a row, Connell was removed after one out in the seventh with one out and two on in favor of Duane Janne, also a curving rightie. Connell had given up three hits and one run before he surrendered a double to Joe Rudi and walked Don Gadsbury. Janne put out the fire by whiffing January and pinch hitter Jamie Pierson.

Janne gave up two singles in the eighth, but the Packers couldn't capitalize.

After the double play got Cerise out of trouble in the fourth, the Foxes went to work in the fifth. After one out, Ray Witkowski singled and the dangerous Hickerson, who played with the football Packers' Tom Brown in York, Pa., last summer, walked. Jim Rouse drilled a double play ball toward second and John Perkins threw the ball into left field, with Witkowski scoring. Connolly skied to center and after Peters was intentionally walked, the light-hitting Ron Perez drove in two runs with a shot to right.

Bunning, now 3-4, was his first to the Mets after six victories.

Lary allowed only Ton Gonzalez' one-out single in the sixth for eight innings. But Gonzalez led off the ninth with a homer, and Richie Allen followed with a single. Frank McGraw then came on and saved Lary's first victory. Short, 4-5, gave up a three-run homer to Johnny Lewis in the fourth run.

Spotted Sixth

The Pirates spotted the Cubs four runs, then tied the game in the fifth inning. Andre Rodgers ignited the four-run rally with a double, then scored the go-ahead run in the sixth after leading off with a single and drove in the final run with a single in the seventh.

The Cardinals won their seventh straight game as Julian Javier rapped three hits, scored three runs and drove in two. He broke a 3-3 tie by coming home on Claude Osteen's balk in the fifth and scored on Ron Perranoski's wild pitch in the seventh.

Joey Jay helped unbeaten Jim Maloney gain his fifth triumph for the Reds. Jay pitched the final two innings after Maloney's shoulder tightened. Five straight hits in the second inning drove Houston's Dave Gustin, 6-2, from the mound. Leo Cardenas knocked in two runs with a pair of singles.

Clay Defends Title Tonight

I'm gonna circle him and stick him—circle and stick. I'm gonna pop, pop, pop him."

That's the way the first fight went. This time the Liston brain trust says the muscular ex-champion, unbeaten in his last 28 fights over a nine-year period until he bowed to Clay, will attempt to pin Cassius to the ropes as Jose Torres did in dethroning light heavyweight king Willie Pastrano.

Under Maine rules, there will be a non-voting referee and three judges. The judges will score the fight on the 10-point system in which the winner of each round gets 10 points and the loser nine or less.

"It don't make no difference," said Liston. "All we need is a referee who can count to 10."

Liston's record is 35-2, including 25 knockouts.

The reports that he may be the target of Black Nationalist avengers haven't blunted Clay's bravado. He has been guarded by police since his arrival here Sunday.

"They don't scare me no how," said Clay. "I fear no living man, only Allah."

Sportsvision, Inc., which is handling the closed circuit television, took out a three-day, $1 million policy on Clay "as a way of demonstrating that we don't see any likelihood of anything happening. We got the policy for $1,000 and that's 1,000-to-1 odds. We're confident everything will go off according to schedule."

Whitewater '9' Beats Titans, 9-5

JAMESTOWN, Tenn. (AP) — Earl Webb, holder of major league baseball's one-season record for doubles, died Sunday night at 67.

Webb hit 67 doubles, still the major league mark, with the Boston Red Sox in 1931. He also played outfield for the New York Giants, Chicago Cubs, Detroit Tigers and Chicago White Sox, compiling a .306 lifetime batting average.

Webb closed out an 18-year career as a professional baseball player in 1937 with Knoxville of the old Southern Association.

He lived at Kopperston, W.Va., and was visiting relatives in James.

Red Chinese Airline Less Than Jet Set

BY CHARLES LYNCH

EDITOR'S NOTE — On a tour of Communist China, the chief of the Southam news services in Canada is making his dispatches available to The Associated Press. U.S. reporters are barred from Red China.

PEKING (AP)—You leave the jet set behind you when you travel inside China on the Chinese People's Airline. It's back to the thunder of pistons and the popping of ears.

Airports are close to downtown, in the old style—the drive from the hotel in Harbin to the local airstrip took only five minutes.

Traffic is not heavy, on the ground or in the air, and you leave the hotel 20 minutes before flight time. Airport formalities are nonexistent, consisting of a cup of tea and the walk to the plane, a twin-engine Russian-built IL14 the mainstay of internal air transport in China.

There seem to be few planes flying in China at any time—to the Western eye the skies seem empty and quiet, devoid of the vapor trails that have become part of the North American and European skyline. In China, the travel route for the masses is by train. Planes are special, and interurban travel by car is virtually unknown. At Harbin, the only other planes on the field were three old DC3s and a couple of Russian-built single-engine biplanes. Pilot and copilot looked more like locomotive engineers than airmen, wearing the eternal blue cloth caps and plain blue coveralls that are the mark of the men of Mao.

You clatter away into the air, surrounded by baggage carried in the cabin along with the passengers and assorted items of freight. Spring winds were blowing their hardest and it was a bumpy passage southward to Changchun.

At Changchun, the temperature had dropped and there was a freezing one-hour stopover in the terminal, with only lashings of tea to stave off the cold.

Military planes were parked on the tarmac in a long row, engines and cockpits swathed in quilted covers. Lunch was served in the form of that rare Chinese delicacy, the sea slug. A plate of sea slugs appeals to the Chinese the way a thick steak appeals to the Westerner—lovely little snail-like creatures they are, all.

Tuesday, May 25, 1965

slimy and spiny, wallowing in their goo.

But I wielded the chopsticks with a will and disposed of the slugs, helped by some salami and a liberal poultice of rice. The other passengers did like as they might have awaited the trumpet of doom. Paper bags held at the ready, we took off again.

The altitude took its toll of possible and no sea slugs.

his goal—he hit a calm patch that lasted through the entire flight and the sea slugs stayed where they belonged. A bumpy landing at Peking and the flight was accomplished—six hours for some 300 miles. At the conclusion of the journey, two resolutions for travel in China go by train whenever possible and no sea slugs.

State's Attitude Toward Plane for Governor Differs From Michigan

BY JOHN WYNGAARD
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

MADISON — Some of the animation in the discussion within the legislative finance committee recently about the purchase of an airplane which would be made available for official travel by the governor reflected the historically conservative policy in the state government about emoluments for its principal officials.

In most of the jurisdictions of the country, prerequisites of the governor beyond salary are more diverse and generous than those to which Wisconsin is accustomed, as some of Gov. Knowles' executive office staffers noted carefully when Michigan Gov. George Romney came to Madison for a speech.

He came in one of the three state-owned planes of Michigan which are available to him on call, and was piloted by a state police officer who travels with him everywhere. He was accompanied also by his press secretary, who has two assistants in his home office, and an administrative aide who has two.

Some friends of the Wisconsin Supreme Court are wondering about the fact that the state department of administration, which has been busily sprucing up most of the wings of the state capitol with new carpeting, decorations, furniture and fixtures has thus far ignored the old-fashioned and drab offices of the members of the court.

The court operates on a sum sufficient with respect to its service budget. But it cannot requisition capital items, and apparently nobody in the legislative or administration divisions of the state government has noted the contrast in quality of accommodations.

Impressions in Democratic politics and his geographical choice of speech engagements support the idea that Louis Hanson, the Democratic state chairman who ran for congress in the upper Wisconsin 10th district several years ago, nourished a desire to make another campaign one day soon.

The incumbent is Rep. Alvin Kinski, who sometimes grumbles that he will retire, but who obviously enjoys his job and the comparative security of his position from challenge for Republican nominations. After two decades, O'Konski has also accumulated one of the longest tenure records among U. S. Representatives in the state.

One of the concerns of Democratic party managers is the prospect that a still fight for the gubernatorial nomination next year between Lt. Gov. Patrick Lucey and David Carley, the national committeeman, will divert contributor funds that would otherwise be destined for the general party treasury for the campaign against the 1966 Republican state ticket.

Fund-raising is one of the instantly practical problems of the contemporary politician. Lucey is having a testimonial dinner — a euphemism for a campaign fund raising rally — as early as August in order to be sure that he has a reasonable treasury for next year.

Some of the party loyalists, aware that the regularity of their attendance is a measure of their fealty, are privately grouching about the cost of the ticket solicitations each year from officials, candidates for state and congressional offices, and sometimes local party organizations.

The succession of Ody Fish of Hartland, Gov. Knowles' man to the chairmanship of the Republican party organization will take place as planned at a meeting of the Republican state committee in Madison Wednesday, May 26. Unless there is an utterly unexpected change in the line-up, Fish will be chosen unanimously to replace the retiring Talbot Peterson of Appleton.

HAVE HOUSING PROJECTS BENEFITED THE POOR?

YES ☐ NO ☐

No, says author Michael Hart. They have to accept a lot of it mainly the middle classes. They seem to regard it as unworthy. The hero of popular drama always overcomes his enemies, often at considerable cost to himself, but he does not yield. On the contrary, the English tend to regard compromise as an adjustment that is fair to everyone, and therefore to be encouraged. Actually, compromise is a reality of all relationships, sometimes good, sometimes not, but always inescapable.

Fram wives are closer to their husbands than city wives:

True — False —

True. Gertrude Dieken, women's editor of "Farm Journal," says, "Despite the modern kitchens and cars, the automatic washers and freezers, and other externals, there do remain important differences between farm and town life." She refers especially to the ways in which a woman's life in town and country differs in the business partnership the farm wife shares with her husband today.

Do Americans believe in compromise? Yes — No

Monthly Debts Up 11 Per Cent Over Last Year

Commercial Loans Also Are Reported To Have Increased

BY SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP) — Americans' monthly payment debts are 11 per cent larger than a year ago. Business, too, is borrowing more. New York bank loans to commercial and industrial concerns have risen $1.4 billion since the first of the year. In the like period of 1964 they dropped by $574 million.

The nation's commercial banks as a whole have been net borrowers for 12 straight weeks from the Federal Reserve banks to meet the demand for loans from business and individuals. When money is easier and lending demands less urgent the banks have nest eggs of excess reserves in the central banking system.

Are debts, business and individual, rising too fast and too high? Is this a sign, as sometimes in the past, that the business upswing is peaking? Is the net borrowed position of the commercial banks a warning that the Federal Reserve is tightening up on credit to keep the economy from overheating?

Not Necessarily

Some bankers are answering "not necessarily" to all three questions.

Delinquency of instalment loans has risen very little. And this is reassuring. A worrisome factor: repayments of outstanding instalment debt is taking 14 per cent of disposable income — what's left of an individual's income after taxes. That's a new high. At the same time borrowers have been taking on new instalment debt at such a pace that they are pledging 16 per cent of their disposable income for future payments. This, too, is a record. Bankers say this is manageable for most families — unless times suddenly turn bad.

The rise in loans to business by New York banks of late has been chiefly to retail stores, public utility and transportation companies, apparel and leather goods producers. Earlier in the year loans were heavy to makers of machinery and other durable goods and to commodity dealers.

Rising Demands

Bankers say the rising demand for loans is due to the general upswing in business and is actually smaller in relation to the growing economy than in past booms. Therefore, it needn't foretell an economic downturn.

In fact, many companies have been borrowing sparingly, because they've had more profits and more cash flow from such items as larger depreciation tax write-offs on which to draw to meet financing needs. The bigger total of loans is due to the fact that everything is bigger — the nation's business, the demands of consumers, the population, the number and size of firms.

Tight Credit

As for the apparent tightening of bank credit in recent weeks, some bankers hold that reserves actually have increased this year — but not as fast as the demand for loans from individuals with rising standards of living and from business seeking to keep up with the expansion of the economy.

Freshmen Speech Winners Named

KAUKAUNA — Thomas Baumgartner was named winner of the freshmen speech contest concluded at Kaukauna High School last week with James Van Dyke, second, Robert Rutler, third and Mary Ann Feldkamp, fourth.

"Total reserves have surged upwards almost without interruption ever since the onset of the 1960 recession", Morgan Guaranty Trust Company economists note. Available bank funds have gone up even faster in the business upturn that started early in 1961.

Huge Flow

Part of this is due to a huge flow of time and savings money into the commercial banks in the last five years. But monetary authorities have been in an expansionary mood, too. The Morgan Guaranty economists note that the Federal Reserve in the first four months of this year alone added more than $800 million to these reserves.

If money looks a little tight right now, they add, a new monetary policy may be only a little faster.

Fond du Lac Actors Win State Honor

Community Players To Perform During Rhinelander Program

FOND DU LAC —For the second consecutive year the Fond du Lac Community Players have won recognition from the Wisconsin Idea Theater of Madison. Last year the group placed first for excerpts from scenes in the "Miracle Worker."

This year they are one of three little theater groups chosen to present plays at Rhinelander during July under the auspices of the Wisconsin Idea Theater. This honor is shared with the Sheboygan and Waukesha little theater groups.

Fond du Lac's winning selection was the "Majority of One." The leading parts were played by Sarah Manis Locke and James Holahan. Supporting roles were taken by Hubert King, Joan Perrizzo and Rose Mishlove, directed by Lorrie Hull.

The three light plays for summer entertainment have been sponsored by the local service clubs of Rhinelander and will be given in their high school auditorium. The performances are scheduled for Wednesday evenings during July.

The Rhinelander service clubs chose this method of entertaining vacationers who come into the area from all over the country during the summer.

This year's selections were made under a plan Robert Gard, extension drama specialist, described in these words. The purpose of this competition is to bring before the public a series of outstanding productions by the leading little theater groups in the state. To implement this idea, a year ago, we set up a board of critics. Any local group has the option to have any one or all of its season's performances judged by critics from the board. About 80 critic sheets were turned in by the May 1 deadline. The board narrowed the finalists down to 32 entries and from these the leading three were chosen.

The results of the contest were announced at the Wisconsin Idea Theater banquet at Madison on May 15.

(just before it enters your tank!)

Most gasolines are clean when they leave the refinery. But on the way to your car—in transit and in storage—they pick up impurities that could choke off power, reduce engine efficiency... could even stop you cold. Automotive engineers asked for an answer to this problem—American Oil Research developed the American FINAL/FILTER. It cleans gasoline one last time, right at the pump nozzle. If you depend on your car for your livelihood (and even if you don't) it pays to "fill 'er up filtered" with American, Regular or American, Super-Premium.

Saturn Rockets Pegasus 2 Into Orbit in 9th Straight Success

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The Saturn 1 super rocket thundered to its ninth straight successful test flight today and drilled into orbit a mammoth "space bird" satellite to climax a spectacular early morning launching.

The satellite, Pegasus 2, unfolded two giant wings to a span of 96 feet — greater than most four-engine airliners — and began swooping through space like a great bird.

Measure Hazards

It was to measure tiny meteoroids and the hazard they pose to astronauts making lengthy space trips.

Each time the thin, metallic skin of Pegasus 2 is penetrated by one of the streaking cosmic bullets, the satellite is to emit an electronic squawk to be recorded in a memory device and radioed to earth on command.

The 18-story tall Saturn 1, the world's most powerful rocket, uttered a mighty roar and sent a waterfall of flame cascading over its launching pad as it flashed to life at 2:35 a.m. after a perfect countdown.

Power Cluster

The massive first-stage power plant, a cluster of eight engines, generated 1.5 million pounds of thrust.

It was the first time that Saturn 1 had been launched in darkness, and it provided early rising missile watchers with a brilliant performance of noise and fire.

It illuminated Cape Kennedy as if it were midday.

After 2½ minutes, the hydrogen-powered second stage ignited, and pushed the satellite into orbit.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration announced that Pegasus 2 was in an orbit ranging from about 320 to 460 miles high.

They said a camera mounted on the second stage provided clear pictures of the deployment.

The burned-out second stage remained attached to the satellite for stabilization. Total weight was 23,000 pounds. Officials said the payload would be visible in areas of the world over which it passed at night.

$3.37 Billion Sought

GOP Group Plans to Slash $100 Million From Aid Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — A group of House Republicans who call themselves "a minority of the minority" plan today to try to cut up to $100 million from President Johnson's $3.37-billion foreign aid authorization bill.

One of the Republicans, Rep. E. Ross Adair of Indiana, told a reporter he expects to offer at least one or perhaps two amendments in that range to give House members who oppose foreign aid spending a chance to pare the authorization.

Adair was far from optimistic about his chances of succeeding. The composition of the House has changed since two years ago when he led a successful Republican attempt to slash foreign aid by more than $500 million.

Democrat Majority

Not only do Democrats have a topheavy majority in the House, but they can count on considerable support among Republicans who traditionally have made the foreign aid program bipartisan.

Also militating against Adair's position is President Johnson's technique of sending Congress a "barebones" foreign-aid request.

Under President John F. Kennedy and prior to that, it was standard technique to ask Congress for far more in the full expectation that budget-minded congressmen would give the request a hefty cut before passing it.

Adair can count on the support of only four other Republican members of the Foreign Affairs Committee for his position. The seven other Republican members are considered pro-foreign aid.

The four dissenters are Reps. H. R. Gross of Iowa, E. Y. Berry of South Dakota, Edward J. Derwinski of Illinois and Vernon W. Thomson of Wisconsin. With Adair they signed minority views in a report accompanying the bill.

Denver Oilman Claims Rifle Used In Assassination

DENVER, Colo. (AP) — A federal suit filed Monday by a Denver area oilman alleges that he is the lawful owner of the 6mm Mannlicher-Carcano rifle used in the assassination of President John F. Kennedy.

John J. King, of Englewood, brought action in U.S. District Court against Atty. General Nicholas Katzenbach, claiming that Katzenbach and the Justice Department have possession of the rifle as well as a 38-caliber pistol with which Dallas policeman J. D. Tippit was slain.

The suit says King, with the aid of William C. Garrett of Dallas, bought the weapons for an undisclosed sum from the Lee Harvey Oswald estate last New Year's Eve.

British Adopt Method

Metric System Booster Sees Hope for His Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — of opposition by members who Housewives, start thinking of butter at so much a kilogram and dress goods at so much a meter.

This advice comes from Chairman George P. Miller of the House Committee on Science and Astronautics.

The California Democrat is one American who reacted with absolute delight to Britain's announcement that gradually it will institute the metric system of weights and measures.

"This passes our bill," Miller exulted to a reporter.

Study Sought

Like some others in Congress, Miller has been calling for years for a study by the National Bureau of Standards of the problems that would be involved in putting the United States on the metric system. They say use of the metric system would make it easier to relate U.S. technology to that of other nations.

So far the bill has moved hardly a millimeter in the face of opposition by members who don't think the results of such a study would be worth its cost, estimated by Miller at $200,000 to $500,000.

"When Britain goes through with this, we will be absolutely alone with our complicated, outdated system of measurements," Miller said. "Our competitive position will be horrible. Have you noticed that our food package labels already carry a line giving the contents in grams?"

Hearings Slated

Miller, a spry 74, said he would waste no time pushing for the study that could lead to the substitution of meters, kilograms and liters for feet, pounds and quarts.

"We'll have hearings next month," he said. "This has got to come, and the sooner we get started, the sooner the confusion will be over."

The British government announcement suggested a 10-year change-over period. Miller is willing to allow even more time here. "Some estimates say a generation would be required for the full change to be absorbed."

"The adjustment probably will be hardest for industries like automobile manufacturing," he said. "And, of course, the average citizen will have to get used to a whole new scale of pricing."

"And those beauty contestants — well, I guess the slogan will be to break 100."

Note: One inch equals 2.54 centimeters.

State Seeks More Data on Federal Aid

MADISON (AP) — State Superintendent of Public Instruction Angus Rothwell says Wisconsin school officials hope to learn more about the new $1.3 billion federal aid to education program through conferences next month in Madison and Washington, D.C.

Rothwell said Monday that no information has been provided on the amount due school districts and rules for project applications have not been established.

The measure, which was signed into law in April, will provide nearly $20.9 million to Wisconsin school districts and another $2.1 million for books and other supplies. In addition, funds will be available for research, pilot projects and administration.

Edgar Fuller, a national officer of an organization of state school officials, will be in Madison June 3-4 to answer questions on the new program. From June 22 to 24, Rothwell will attend a meeting of school superintendents in Washington at which federal regulations governing the act will be explained.

Proxmire Against Vote Bill Change

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., voted with the majority Monday as the Senate defeated an amendment by Sen. John Tower, R-Texas, to rewrite key sections of the voting rights bill. Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., was not recorded as voting.

Both voted with the majority as the Upper House upheld President Johnson's plan for reorganization of the Customs Bureau by rejecting a resolution to disapprove it.

Vietnamese Outpost Strafed by 2 Planes

First Reports Confused On Identity of Attackers

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — A South Vietnamese outpost five miles from the 17th parallel came under an aerial strafing attack today that an American spokesman attributed to straying U. S. jet fighters. First accounts had said the planes were Communist MIGs. Five Vietnamese were wounded, a truck destroyed and a bulldozer set afire at Gia Linh. Four planes made the raid with a single pass, two firing on the outpost and the other two flying top cover.

Brig. Gen. Nguyen Chanh Thi, military commander of the area, said he had eyewitness reports that the raiders were MIG jets, painted black and with no wing markings. He said this led him to suspect they were Communist Chinese.

A total of 40 U.S. planes had been engaged at that point in raids on targets in Communist North Viet Nam. The most spectacular was the blasting of a petroleum storage area near Vinh, 140 miles south of Hanoi by 12 U.S. Air Force F105 Thunderchiefs.

Cloture Is Predicted for Voting Debate

WASHINGTON (AP) — A band of undeclared Republicans held the key today to whether the Senate would vote to curb debate on President Johnson's voting rights bill.

Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen forecast a debate-limiting two-thirds vote that would clear the way for passage of the measure by next week.

Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield ventured no forecast on the vote that comes an hour after the Senate convenes at noon.

100 Senators

If all 100 senators vote, it will take 67 of them to invoke cloture, limiting each senator thereafter to an hour's talk on the voting rights bill and all amendments.

In an Associated Press poll, 62 senators said they would vote for cloture, 26 declared themselves opposed.

Undeclared Democrats

The undeclared Democrats are Howard W. Cannon of Nevada, Albert Gore of Tennessee and Ralph W. Yarborough of Texas.

Of the 12, all but Gore and Tower, who voted against, and Murphy, who was not in the Senate, voted for cloture a year ago when the Senate for the first time limited debate on a civil rights bill.

That action came after 75 days of debate on a broad civil rights measure that became law. It put a stop to a Southern filibuster and opened the way for passage eight days later.

The vote then was 71 to 29.

Chief of State Phan Khac Suu signed a decree today removing nine army generals from the military. They included Lt. Gen. Duong Minh, onetime chief of state.

Others removed, a government spokesman disclosed, included Maj. Gen. Tran Van Don, Maj. Gen. Mai Huu Nuan, Maj. Gen. Le Van Kim and Brig. Gen. Do Mau, all of whom participated with Minh in the coup of November 1963 that brought down the government of President Ngo Dinh Diem.

Nine Officers

The nine officers on the list covered by the decree actually had been on leave for several months for what was described as a period pending retirement. Minh was removed as chief of state last fall by Gen. Nguyen Khanh, who later was ousted.

U. S. Deaths In Viet Nam Reach 385

WASHINGTON (AP) — The combat death toll of U.S. servicemen in Viet Nam today reached 385 — equaling the battle deaths in the 1898 Spanish-American War.

The wounded in the Viet Nam war has reached a higher level than in the Spanish-American War.

In 1898, in a war lasting four months, 1,662 Americans suffered wounds.

According to the latest Pentagon figures, reflecting the wounded total through May 17, 2,176 American servicemen have been injured in combat in Viet Nam.

The Viet Nam war and the Spanish-American War totals are only fractional compared to U.S. losses in other wars.

In Korea there were 33,620 battle deaths. In World War II, 291,557 Americans fell. In World War I, the toll was 53,402.

The Pentagon statistics on the Civil War list only battle deaths for the Union Army and these came to 140,414.

Battle deaths in three early wars also were considerable higher than the present toll in Viet Nam — 4,435 in the Revolution, 2,260 in the War of 1812 and 1,733 in the Mexican War.

Negroes Charge Governments Aid Lawless Activities

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — Negro leaders appealing to the legislature for equal rights charged today that state and local governments in Alabama have encouraged lawless groups to deprive Negroes of their freedom.

A strongly worded petition was drawn up by Negroes seeking the hearing before House and Senate members from several counties, including those in which the civil rights struggle has centered.

Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. returned to Montgomery — where he first gained renown — to take charge of the attempt to get a conference with the legislators.

School Segregation Practice Protested

Milwaukee Demonstrators Will Face Traffic Charges Next Week

MILWAUKEE (AP) — A trial would continue until defendants are met by the school board. He released Monday on charges of obstructing traffic in a school integration dispute.

The group was taken into custody when nine of them formed a human chain in front of one of three school buses scheduled to take Negro pupils to another school. Two others were arrested a few minutes later when they sat down in front of the second bus.

The eleven include Assemblyman Lloyd Barbee, D - Milwaukee, Wisconsin's only Negro legislator and chairman of the Milwaukee United School Integration Committee which staged the protest. The organization had sponsored a one-day boycott of Negro area schools last May.

Barbee said the demonstrations would continue until demands are met by the school board. He termed the demonstration a protest over predominantly Negro classes from overcrowded schools being kept intact when they are transferred to other schools.

In a statement he said "Intact bussing of children from overcrowded inner core schools is worse than 'de facto' segregation which the Milwaukee school board has refused to recognize and remedy." He said pupils being transferred were "harmful psychologically" and became "objects of curiosity for children in host schools."

School superintendent Harold S. Vincent said the policy of keeping classes intact had been found to be "educationally and administratively sound by the school board's special committee on equality of education opportunity."

After Monday's incident, Barbee said, "The human chain was designed to obstruct the bus, not to get arrested. Of course we were not shocked by the arrest."

The demonstrators were accused formally of obstructing traffic unlawfully by standing on a roadway.

Man Says Twin Wanted Brother 'Taken Care of'

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — "Tim told me he would like to get rid of his brother and would be willing to pay," declared a surprise witness at the murder trial of wealthy Timothy Nicholson, accused of fatally shooting his twin brother, Todd.

Arthur Santini, 42, appeared Monday as a prosecution rebuttal witness in Superior Court.

He said that Tim "Told me (that) while he was gone to Nicaragua he had given his brother power of attorney and the brother had overdrawn more than $3,000 from a personal checking account."

Santini, a house painter, said Tim was angry and "told me he would like to get rid of his brother and would be willing to pay $5,000."

Santini said he commented at the time that $5,000 didn't seem like very much money.

Later, Santini testified, "Tim" was angry again. He said his brother had taken him for more money than he thought. Then he told me he would make it $10,000 to get rid of his brother."

The 22-year-old twins were heirs to the Cuahy meat packing and Pullman sleeping car fortunes. Timothy is charged with killing Todd last Dec. 7.

Thumbs Down on Silver Dollars

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government has reversed itself and decided against issuing 45 million silver dollars.

The decision announced Monday night came just as the first silver dollars in more than 30 years were set to roll from the Denver Mint.

The Treasury is reluctant to mint silver dollars because both silver and minting facilities are needed to meet a continuing shortage of other coins and being a cause government supplies of silver are running short.

Kidnap Counts Are Filed After 2-State Chase

SUPERIOR (AP) — Five charges of kidnaping were filed Monday against a Superior man in the aftermath of a wild two-state police pursuit.

Patrick M. Brennan, 24, was held in Douglas County Jail in lieu of $50,000 bond after waiving a preliminary court hearing.

One of the hostages, Edwin R. Cook, 25, a night clerk at a Superior hotel who was wounded in the gun battles, was listed in fairly good condition today in a Duluth, Minn., hospital.

Brennan was also charged with burglary and discharging dangerous firearms.

State Charges

He was held on state charges of kidnaping Cook, Walter W. Smith Jr., and William Daniels, all of Superior, and Mr. and Mrs. Norman A. Bodine of Duluth early Sunday.

Superior police opened fire when the car raced through a roadblock at a St. Louis River bridge leading to Duluth. Brennan surrendered after Cook was struck in the head by ricocheting bullets in an exchange of fire with police in Duluth.

Superior Police Chief Charles Barnard said Brennan was on probation from a 1961 conviction for attempted burglary.

Special to The Post-Crescent

CHICAGO — Judges of the 7th District United States Circuit Court of Appeals ruled Monday afternoon that they will hear oral arguments on the Civil Aeronautics Board (CAB) petition for the court to reconsider its recent decision involving Outagamie County and North Central Airlines.

The court ruled in late April that North Central must serve Outagamie County at its new airport, at least until the time when the court announces its decision on appeals by the State of Wisconsin and three state communities on the CAB's regional airport decision.

The CAB, last January, stayed the effective date of its airport consolidation offer until after the court disposes of the appeals, provided the "status quo" is maintained.

However, when Outagamie County attempted to close its old airport and open its new facility in the Town of Greenville, the CAB approved a North Central petition to suspend service at Appleton and to begin serving the entire Fox Valley area at the Winnebago County Airport in Oshkosh. Outagamie County got the court to overrule the decision, but the CAB is now seeking a reversal.

The oral arguments will be heard "on motions only" at 9:30 a.m., June 2 in a 27th floor conference room in the federal building at 219 S. Dearborn Street.

Human Rights Unit Told, 'Be Ready to Risk Jobs, Friends'

'Must be Committed to Cause,' Dr. Gilbert James Declares

Members of the Fox Valley propagated in hate literature Human Rights Council were told sent out by various groups. Monday night they "must be so committed to the cause of human rights they will risk their reputations, jobs, and friends to stand up for what they believe."

Dr. Gilbert James, professor of sociology at the University of Wisconsin-Fox Valley Center, told an audience of 100 that the council must have leaders and followers who can stand criticism.

James spoke on "Operation Broadside: The Future of the Fox Valley Human Rights Council."

The purpose of the council "is not to go out and drag somebody in here, but to prepare the Valley for what will happen naturally and to guarantee equal rights for all regardless of color, race, or religion," Dr. James said.

He emphasized that the council exists "if for no other reason than to get the truth to the people in the Valley and refute the racist ideas 'that are

"The council should serve not as an instigator as much as a voice for the community," James added.

He said that whether or not the council attains its goals will depend largely on the individual members. "The council won't succeed if it is based on persons who need to be associated with a crusade," Dr. James commented.

"The council needs people who are willing to get out and push when things get mixed down," he said. "These are the people who are committed to the cause of human rights."

Dr. James stressed that the council's program "must be comprehensive. 'What good is a fair housing law if the minority person cannot get a job or a good education?' he exclaimed. "We have to move on all fronts at one time if we are going to guarantee rights for all."

Dr. James noted that the three areas are interrelated and the problem in one area cannot be effectively solved without dealing with the problems in the other areas at the same time.

The ordained Methodist minister emphasized that the council "shall not defraud or degrade its enemies" but recognize their right to express their opinions.

K-C President Named To Industrial Board

NEENAH — John R. Kimberly, president, Kimberly-Clark Corp., was re-elected a vice chairman of the National Industrial Conference Board for a term of one year at the board's 49th annual meeting in the Waldorf-Astoria, New York City.

The conference board, founded in 1916, is an independent and nonprofit institution for business and industrial fact finding through scientific research.

Teachers Concerned About Adverse Effects on Youths

possible Skipping class keeps some student's from keeping up on what's being taught. Tardiness, often for its own sake, is also disrupting. General attitude and morale have affected the students' willingness to work.

It is during the initial year of high school that average and low students need the discipline of study and supervision. The one who can't do it himself is hurt most. One teacher feels that even though it has not been a good year for many, the bright ones and many of the seniors have been able to go ahead on their own. He expresses dismay at what it will be like when the seniors, and then the juniors, have graduated, and the school has three classes of students who have never known any other system.

Create Own World

The difficulties in providing a good education this year apparently do not center around curriculum or quality of teaching or textbooks. Teachers say they have closed their classroom doors and tried to carry on with as much discipline and stress on learning as ever. They create their own small world within the broader world of the school and try not to let that outer world affect their own efforts.

But this is not entirely

Except in classes where the teacher personally demands consistently high quality from his students, faculty members respect both for teachers and for each other. There's no emphasis on general quality of education. Lack of consistency in what's expected bothers students too. "Teachers have to work as individuals," they say. "Each one has to make his own rules. The only way they're united is on a list that says they're AHS teachers."

"Student-centered is fine," says a teacher, "as long as it's centered on his education instead of his entertainment. 'Keep him happy' seems to be the theory. 'It's a better place than home.' If one occasionally gets kicked out, he comes back and walks the halls. Appleton High has become a 'fun school.' The most fun is seeing how much you can get away with," is a student comment.

$400 Damage Set In 2-Car Mishap

LITTLE CHUTE — Over $400 damage was estimated in a 2-car accident about 10:10 p.m. Friday at Madison and Main Streets, according to village police.

The accident occurred as a car driven by John F. Vander Zanden, 29, route 3, Appleton, was pulling from a stop sign and collided with a vehicle driven by John G. Hietpas Jr., 30, route 1, Kaukauna, who was traveling east on Main. Hietpas attempted to stop, but was unable to avoid the mishap.

A blinker light on the Hietpas vehicle was indicating a right turn. He told police he did not realize the signal light was on.

Frank Balistreri, 17, Pleads Innocent to Disorderly Charge

Frank A. Balistreri, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Balistreri of Milwaukee, today pleaded innocent of disorderly conduct. He will face trial in Outagamie County Court Branch 2 in September. He was released on $75 bond.

Appleton police made the charge after investigation into a complaint the youth allegedly had flashed a starter's pistol at an Appleton service station Thursday. Balistreri has been living with relatives in the Town of Menasha.

The warrant was issued today by Dist. Atty. Nick F. Schaefer. Balistreri was waived from juvenile court jurisdiction.

Bear Collides With Buck in Volkswagen

Cars colliding with deer on county and state roadways is not always news, but a Buck driving a Volkswagen and colliding with a bear is something new.

County police said Ronald Buck, 22, 725½ W. Franklin St., Appleton, was uninjured but his small car was damaged when the vehicle struck a small black bear on County Trunk A near Shiocton Sunday night.

Buck said he had seen many deer as he drove along the road toward Appleton and was prepared for a possible collision with the animals. The incident occurred shortly after 10 p.m.

Buck said he saw a blur in front of his car and hit the animal. Although the animal was "lumbering" across the road at a high speed, Buck said he was sure it was a bear. He described the animal as between 100 and 200 pounds and was about one year old.

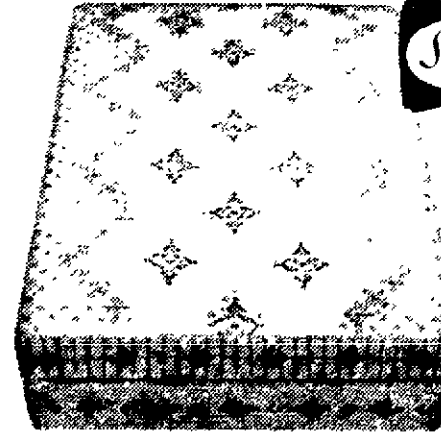

After the collision, Buck's small car swerved but stopped short of a culvert. Buck said he did not see the bear after the accident, but said the animal must have been injured as there was blood and matted hair on the car fender. Damage to the car is estimated by county police at between $200 and $300.

Waupaca Board Votes Cartwright Jail Site

office rooms for the conservation warden, probation officer, office rooms for other departments when needed, boiler plant, emergency power plant, service garage and storage space. Cost of construction would be $12.55 per square foot compared to $15.22 per square foot for the two-story building. It was pointed out that an elevator in the two-story structure would cost $20,000, raising the square foot cost.

According to Dretzke, the greatest objection to building on the square was the cost of operation, transporting prisoners while the jail was under construction, lack of parking space and no room for expansion. It would require three additional employees to maintain the two-story building because all prisoners must be within sight and sound of the jailer, according to state law, he said. Taking all of the savings into consideration over a long period, Dretzke said the jail on the Cartwright property could cost taxpayers considerably less than if built on the square.

The new structure includes quarters for a County Court Branch 2, but Dist. Atty. Richard E. Johnson told the board it would be impossible to have court in the jail because he would be away from the clerk of courts and record rooms which would be required with the second county court. After hearing the citizens' supervisors argued the site issue, then took a recess to view scale models of the two proposed plans.

Plans now being recommended call for 34 cells, of which nine will be for men, three for women, three for boys, two for girls, six for Huber law prisoners, two for maximum security, one for mental cases and one for the special care cell. The ground animal will have 13,307 square feet and the basement 12,633 square feet for a total of 25,940 square feet.

The main floor will have office room for the captain of the county traffic patrol, office for the sheriff and undersheriff, Branch 2 Court room, office room for the judge and secretary, (it is now doubtful whether must have been injured as there was blood and matted hair on the car fender. Damage to the car is estimated by county police at between $200 and $300.

Dominican Rebels Optimistic About Chance of Coalition

U. S. Sees Anti-Guzman Feeling As Block to Settlement With Junta

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP) — The Dominican rebels were optimistic today and the Americans pessimistic about prospects for a coalition government. The junta showed no sign of giving way.

A rebel spokesman said negotiations to form a government headed by Antonio Guzman, Fernandez, minister of agriculture under deposed President Juan Bosch, were "very advanced." Other rebel sources said the talks were nearing "a successful conclusion."

But a U.S. spokesman, noting headed by Antonio Guzman from the junta, said prospects for a quick settlement were still dim. "A number of conversations have taken place and are continuing."

Explain Negotiations
Sources close to the junta president, Brig. Gen. Antonio Ibert Barrera, said Ibert had not been consulted on the coalition government. He called in U.S. Ambassador W. Tapley Bennett Jr. and Jose A. Mora, secretary-general of the Organization of American States, to ask them for an explanation of the negotiations.

Bennett reportedly told Ibert that the United States was not trying to impose a government. However, the United States is known to favor Guzman as a compromise choice.

Ibert has been demanding that the rebels surrender and has refused to step aside in favor of a coalition. The rebel chief, Col. Francisco Caamaño Dengo, has said he would resign if an agreement is reached on the coalition.

The Washington Post reported Monday night that President Johnson has ordered a team of FBI agents into the Dominican Republic to investigate the extent and nature of Communist influence in the Caribbean nation.

The newspaper said that de-

Bolivia Junta, Miners Agree To Cease Fire

At Least 19 Killed, 70 Wounded in Eight Days of Tin Strike

LA PAZ, Bolivia (AP) — Bolivia's military junta and its tin miners agreed Monday night to a cease-fire calling for an end to the miners' eight-day-old strike and withdrawal of troops from the mines.

The truce was signed after a battle between government forces and workers in the industrial suburbs of La Paz which continued into Monday night. At least 19 persons were killed and more than 70 wounded.

Heavy casualties were reported in mining centers south of the capital where miners tried to repel troops under government orders to occupy the state-owned mines.

The cease-fire agreement was signed by Gen. Alfredo Ovando Candia, the armed forces commander, and leaders of the Bolivian Drivers Union who have been mediating the dispute between the junta and the leftist miners union.

Radio Mendez in La Paz said representatives of the two factions will meet in the capital to widen the agreement. The broadcast said it now stipulates that:

1. The miners will call off the strike they began May 17 to protest deportation of their leader, former Vice President Juan Lechin.

2. The junta will pull its troops out of tin mines they have occupied and stop their advance on other mining centers.

Bloody Riots

Bloody rioting erupted in La Paz last week following the start of the strike, and the junta sent 17 labor leaders into exile in Paraguay to join Lechin.

An armed band of gunmen tried to assassinate the president of the junta, Lt. Gen. Rene Barrientos, Saturday at the Kami mining center 140 miles south of La Paz. He escaped injury but one of his guards were killed. Four gunmen were captured.

The government ordered the army to occupy the mines Sunday after the miners refused to return to work. Decrees were issued reducing wages of all mine workers and dismissing 27,000 workers from the state mining corporation's payroll.

Troops began occupying one mine after another north and south of the capital, freeing a number of the 70 hostages the government said were being held by the strikers.

The fighting spread Monday from the mine centers to the suburbs of La Paz, where officials estimated that 300 snipers were holed up. Air Force planes strafed the hillsides around La Paz in an effort to flush out the snipers.

Fears Link With Oswald

Ruby Says Stimulants Goaded Him to Killing

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Jack Ruby told Monday how he took numerous stimulant pills before killing presidential assassin Lee Harvey Oswald and then expressed fear that he and Oswald would be linked in the assassination.

"To the American people and the world . . . I'm going to be branded a part of a conspiracy with Oswald," said Ruby. "You're going to forget how I felt about the beloved President Kennedy. There has been so much torment, so much hardship."

Ruby's discourse, wandering from topic to topic and punctuated with emotional pauses, came during a hearing in which attorney Joe Tonahill, who was on Ruby's trial defense team, was taken out of the case for Ruby's forthcoming sanity hearing.

Tonahill's removal was ordered by Judge Louis T. Holland, Montague, Tex., who said the question of Ruby's counsel would be settled by the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals following the sanity hearing.

Ruby, his face pallid from over a year in jail, said he took 30 antibiotic pills and others that "stimulate you and make you want to do positive things" after awakening on Sunday, Nov. 24, 1963, the day Oswald was shot to death.

He said he brooded about the Kennedy children being father-

Knowles Signs Federal Funds Request for Industrial Commission

MADISON (AP) — Gov. Warren P. Knowles put his approval and signature Monday on the State Industrial Commission's request for $6.8 million in federal funds to operate the unemployment compensation and employment service divisions for the 1965-67 biennium.

The funds come from appropriations of taxes paid by Wisconsin employers covered by the federal unemployment act and do not provide for any new programs.

Whites Seek Ouster Of Bogalusa Mayor

Official Vowed to Erase All Segregation Laws From Books

BOGALUSA, La. (AP) — Angry whites, fighting any move toward desegregation, pressed today for a recall election aimed at ousting the mayor.

About 500 whites milled around a bonfire rally in a city park Monday night after the park gates were ripped away.

Mayor Jesse Cutrer Jr., and the Commission Council had closed the all-white parks here last Wednesday after about 100 Negroes, staging a test picnic, were attacked by whites.

The recall petition was started by the Bogalusa Citizens Council after Cutrer announced the city's illegal segregation laws would be wiped off the books.

"I have to do what I think is right for the community," the mayor said. "You can't let those on the fringe lead. All I can see, otherwise, is chaos and violence and killing."

The Citizens Council accused the mayor of "going along with scalawags, carpetbaggers and outside agitators."

Increase Pressure
The council petition increased the pressure on Mayor Cutrer, 50, who has been in the uncomfortable middle between the Ku Klux Klan and civil rights workers for months.

The black-haired mayor, an ice cream manufacturer, said he will not back off from his stand.

Negroes make up about 35 percent of the 23,000 residents of this southeast Louisiana city, located in an area which the Klan claims as its own.

At Monday night's park rally, big signs reading, "This park closed indefinitely by order of Commission Council" were torn down.

There were cries of, "Let's go to City Hall." Some drove to the white-columned City Hall, which resembles an antebellum mansion, but found it closed.

Civic, Religious Leaders
About 150 then gathered outside the office of John Gallsap, a lawyer who is chairman of the Community Affairs Committee, made up of business, civic and religious leaders.

Gallsap declined to issue an immediate statement. As the crowd broke up, one of them told a newsman: "We're not giving this town to James Farmer."

Farmer is national director of the Congress of Racial Equality, which backs the Bogalusa Civic and Voters League in its civil rights drive. He made his latest appearance here at a rally Sunday night when he praised Cutrer's attitude.

A spokesman for the whites said the rally's main purpose was to protest the "meddling in the affairs of Bogalusa" by three volunteer mediators.

The mediators, men of statewide stature and political friends of Gov. John McKeithen, stepped into the situation when it teetered on the edge of violence. They were successful in setting up negotiations between city officials and Negro leaders.

The Klan distributed leaflets criticizing the three — Victor H. Bussie of Baton Rouge, president of the Louisiana AFL-CIO; Camille F. Gravel, Alexandria lawyer and former Democratic national committeeman; and State Sen. Michael O'Keefe, New Orleans.

Red Chinese Airline Less Than Jet Set

BY CHARLES LYNCH

EDITOR'S NOTE — On a tour of Communist China, the chief of the Southam news services in Canada is making his dispatches available to The Associated Press. U.S. reporters are barred from Red China.

PEKING (AP)—You leave the jet set behind you when you travel inside China on the Chinese People's Airline. It's back to the thunder of pistons and the popping of ears.

Airports are close to downtown, in the old style—the drive from the hotel in Harbin to the local airstrip took only five minutes.

Traffic is not heavy, on the ground or in the air, and you leave the hotel 20 minutes before flight time. Airport formalities are nonexistent, consisting of a cup of tea and the walk to the plane, a twin-engine Russian-built IL14, the mainstay of internal air transport in China.

There seem to be few planes flying in China at any time—the Western eye the skies seem empty and quiet, devoid of the vapor trails that have become part of the North American and European skyline. In China, the travel route for the masses is by train. Planes are special, and interurban travel by car is virtually unknown.

At Harbin, the only other planes on the field were three old DC3s and a couple of Russian-built single-engine biplanes. Pilot and copilot looked more like locomotive engineers than airmen, wearing the eternal blue cloth caps and plain blue coveralls that are the mark of the men of Mao.

You clatter away into the air, surrounded by baggage carried in the cabin along with the passengers and assorted items of freight. Spring winds were blowing their hardest and it was a bumpy passage southward to Changchun.

At Changchun, the temperature had dropped and there was a freezing one-hour stopover in the terminal, with only lashings of tea to stave off the cold. Military planes were parked on the tarmac in a long row, engines and cockpits swathed in quilted covers.

Lunch was served in the form of that rare Chinese delicacy, the sea slug. A plate of sea slugs appeals to the Chinese the way a thick steak appeals to the Westerner — lovely little snail-like creatures they are, all slimy and spiny, wallowing in their goo.

But I wielded the chopsticks with a will and disposed of the slugs, helped by some salami and a liberal poultice of rice. The other passengers did likewise, and awaited the flight call as they might have awaited the trumpet of doom. Paper bags held at the ready, we took off again.

At the conclusion of the journey, two resolutions for travel in China: go by train whenever possible, and no sea slugs.

Africans Take Another Look at Russia

Since the Congolese revolt was put down last winter with the help of American planes, Belgian troops and a number of white mercenaries in the regular Congolese army, the howls of protest from many of the African countries have died down. What seems to be happening is that some of the black African leaders who were not at all averse to using anti-colonialism for their personal political ambitions are figuring that becoming a Communist puppet is no way to personal prestige either.

Premier Jomo Kenyatta, who received some of his training in Moscow before Kenya was given independence from Great Britain, joined the official protests against American and Belgian aid to Tshombe and charged that the aid was an effort to return to colonial control. But within a few weeks the climate began to change.

Some 29 Kenyan students who had been studying in Moscow returned home with claims of discrimination and beatings at the hands of the Russians. They were actually part of twice as many who had camped out at a railroad station in protest but the others had been persuaded to stay in the Soviet Union a little longer. The Kenya government then charged that Russia was training Kenyans as fighter pilots without the knowledge or permission of the government. There were rumors that a widespread Communist plot was aimed at toppling not only Kenyatta but the prime ministers in Tanzania and Uganda as well. The government tightened regulations on foreigners, requiring that permission be gained in advance for any trips further than ten miles.

Then came suggestions that the Russians were smuggling in arms for left wing opponents of Kenyatta. There was supposed to be an arms cache in the home of the home minister who was known to be pro-Red. And sure enough a Russian ship appeared on the horizon and some 17 Russians came flying in by plane.

Kenyatta sent troops to the area and requested that a British aircraft carrier stay in port just in case. Helicopters flew up and British helicopters were encouraged to buzz around the coast near the port. Eventually the Soviet ship steamed away with the 17 Russians and the alleged load of arms. Two left wing candidates for high office were roundly defeated in parliament by right wing candidates.

The change of heart could be in part due to a successful fund raising drive by Kenya in the United States and Western Europe. Reportedly they received pledges of loans and grants amounting to over $100 million.

But of more importance is the fear of Africans of any sort of outside control and their belated recognition that the Soviet Union and Red China are the new colonizers in the world today. The African leaders want to run things and they are even willing to call on European help when it becomes necessary. The balance that is hard to keep is when their regimes become oppressive, as the rule of Nkrumah may be developing in Ghana, so that Communist promises begin to have allure.

Clearing the Air

The decision by the Appleton Common Council's Personnel Committee to reject bids received in November of 1964 and sit down with municipal employee representatives to arrive at specifications for a new hospital-surgical insurance coverage plan for city workers was a prudent one.

Last year when the city and an employee union were involved in a contract dispute and went to fact-finding, one of the items agreed upon by both parties was that insurance represented a fringe benefit in part and would be a negotiable item when it came to 1965. Under the present setup, the city pays 60 per cent of the insurance premium and the employee 40 per cent.

With 1965 negotiations already far overdue, it is imperative that the Personnel Committee and employee representatives arrive at agreement on the type of insurance coverage desired, and then swing into talks designed to arrive at agreement on a contract for this year.

Because of misunderstandings and complexities involved in negotiating for the first time under the framework of the Wisconsin Municipal Employee Act, it took almost a year and a half to settle the 1964 disagreement. There should be no repeat of this unfortunate situation in 1965.

Maccabees Patrol Curbs Crime

The Maccabees, who organized in a section of Brooklyn as an anti-crime patrol made up entirely of Hasidic Jews, have observed their first anniversary. They now have members of many faiths. There are also 20 Negroes in the volunteer patrol, a triumph in itself since at the outset the Negroes considered the group as vigilantes.

The consensus indicates a decrease in crime in the area, but it is impossible to say how much of this can be credited to the Maccabees, since the police also increased their activities during the year.

The patrol's four sedans, each carrying four unarmed men, have won praise from the shopkeepers in the area, although their role is usually undramatic, as it was intended to be. They may use their flashlights to observe a person loitering near an apartment house, to escort a nurse from hospital to subway, or to make an emergency run for medicine to an all-night drug store.

They help direct traffic at fires and their appearance when a patrolman tries to reason with unruly teen gangs has had a quieting effect. They try to avoid the initiative in fighting crime, but are ready to take an active part in helping police capture a criminal.

Shopkeepers say the neighborhood has been made safer by the presence of the patrol, which has been nicknamed the Bagel Lancers or the Talmudical Police Force.

"People are walking in the neighborhood after dark again," Rabbi Samuel Schrage, the patrol's founder, declares.

North Western-Milwaukee Merger

Stockholders of both the North Western and Milwaukee railroad companies have now approved plans for a merger which would make the combined system the second largest in the nation. Its 20,975-mile system would be exceeded only by the proposed 24,000-mile Great Northern-Pac fic-Burlington line.

The two Midwest railroads have much parallel mileage and duplicating facilities. Committees of the two roads are now engaged in detailed studies of how the new system would operate and where such duplication can be eliminated.

When these studies are completed application must be made to the Interstate Commerce Commission for approval. This is necessarily a lengthy procedure, but the ICC has indicated in recent decisions that mergers will be looked upon favorably where the ICC believes the public interest through better transportation is served thereby.

The Fox River Valley area has a considerable interest in the merger proposal, even though it is served presently only obliquely by the Milwaukee Road. Industry in this area will examine closely the proposals put forth for improvement in service locally by the combined roads.

Lieut. J. A. Watrous Not Dead

100 YEARS AGO
Quoted from the Appleton Crescent for May 13, 1865.

Lieut. J. A. Watrous, of the Iron Brigade, whose obituary we published a fortnight since, and to fill whose place an appointment has been made by the Governor, is, we rejoice to state, still alive and in a fair way of recovery.

It appears that after he was shot from his horse, he was taken prisoner. When the rebels found they could not hold Richmond, he was paroled.

We hear that he was so badly wounded that he could not give an account of himself until after he had been some days in hospital in Alexandria. His numerous friends here and elsewhere will be glad to learn that he hopes to be able to come home very soon now, when he can then read his own obituary at leisure and take such steps as he may think proper to prove to the State authorities that he was not "killed in action" as the official accounts show to have been the case, and that he is physically alive even if "officially dead."

Jimmy Fieweger, Kimberly, paced the Lawrence freshman track and field team to an 85-46 victory the previous afternoon. Fieweger turned in probably the greatest individual effort of any Lawrence man in the sport when he scored 26 of the winning points. He won a first in the high hurdles, the low hurdles, high jump, shot and broad jump.

LWV Has Documented Evidence Of Housing Discrimination

Editor, Post-Crescent:

The Appleton League of Women Voters noted with dismay Governor Knowles' recent statement that indicated that "no open housing supporter had met his challenge to present evidence of discrimination." (A.P. Release, Post-Crescent, May 19.)

in housing in Wisconsin." Quoting directly from the booklet:

"Discrimination is an act, an overt expression of prejudice, an act based upon prejudice in some form, which denies equal treatment to individuals or groups. Whereas prejudice, what a person thinks, cannot be changed by legislation, discrimination, what a person does, can be and frequently is controlled or penalized in our present-day society. (Viz, the 1964 Civil Rights Law)

"After a 12 year study of the needs of minority groups, the Wisconsin Governor's Commission on Human Rights unanimously concluded that the greatest unmet need of minority persons in the northern states is fair housing opportunity. Existing housing for Negroes is inadequate, overcrowded, deteriorated, and lacking in essential requirements for good citizenship, concentrated in poor sections adjacent to semi-industrial and commercial sections. Their white neighbors are free to move out if their budgets permit; the Negroes are not; they are hemmed in."

"In every one of five Wisconsin cities, with a sizeable nonwhite population (Beloit, Madison, Milwaukee, Kenosha and Racine), a Negro who wants to move out of a section in which he lives encounters great difficulty. In the majority of cases the best he can do is to move his family to a block on the periphery of the neighborhood in which he has lived previously; he must buy in an already old neighborhood which may be predominantly white but where properties are no longer desirable."

Let me emphasize that the above statements are fully researched and documented not only by our League interviewers but by the U.S. Census, the Milwaukee Sentinel and Journal, Wisconsin Industrial Commission, Governor's Commission on Human Rights and a number of individual authorities in the field. In the face of such overwhelming evidence Leagues all over Wisconsin concluded unanimously that "Discrimination in housing does exist in Wisconsin."

Mrs. Arch Hoffman, President of League of Women Voters of Appleton.

is well documented by many studies, including those of the Governor's Commission on Human Rights.

In this, as in all basic legislation, Wisconsin must be considered one community. A multitude of local ordinances would range from weak to strong and leave large areas uncovered. Unity is essential to establish a climate for the rights of all to flourish.

There is still time to write to State Senator Gerald Lorge on behalf of 5310, and, we hope, be able to hold up our heads in Wisconsin.

Republican Strategy Clear in Combining Budget and Tax Bill

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON—The depth of the quarrel in the legislature between the Democrats and the Republicans on the mechanical question of joining the state budget with a revenue bill is doubtless perplexing to many persons who have observed the news accounts of the proceedings.

Wyngaard

It represents no special rule in public administration or even legislative tradition. One issue could have priority over the other. There have been cases in the past in which the issues have been joined. More frequently they were separated and handled singly.

It is a question of political strategy that is involved, even as it was involved two years ago when the Republicans insisted upon a combination expenditure-revenue bill. Put as simply as possible, the Republicans want to use the appetite for spending and the influence and pressure of the spending interests as allies in arranging a settlement on the sticky and dangerous question of taxation.

The value of the combined bill, from the administration point of view, was aptly shown a couple of weeks ago when the spokesmen for the big education budgets turned up to declare for the record that they supported the Knowles revenue measures designed to buttress the education expenditure increases in which they are so deeply involved.

THE POLITICS

If the Republicans consented to enact a budget as a first order of business and then to take their chances on a compromise with the Democrats on the methods of financing it with new or higher taxes, those potent voices would be stifled. They would relax in the knowledge that their appropriations were secure and it was the business of the politicians to figure out how to raise the money. As the issue now stands, the institutions and the multifarious services have a deep concern in the outcome of the joint package. Nor should their punch be minimized. The universities, the welfare services and many others are substantial elements of the political community and are increasing their political power as they grow rapidly and steadily in the size of their enrollments, caseloads, or whatever.

The battle at close range is a fiercely fought one, however blurred and uncertain it may appear at a more distant view, because the wary Democrats who control the Assembly are precisely aware of what the Senate Republican majority and the Republican administration are doing.

Democrats know that they will have a stronger hand in the final bargaining on the sensitive issue of taxation if all of the amalgamation of special interests involved on the spending side of the issue are removed to the sidelines.

REVERSAL

It is important to note in this connection that the roles of the parties in the perennial tug-of-war about revenue policy have been reversed.

Two years ago a Democratic governor was in the vulnerable position of presiding over a financial crisis as a new fiscal year began and had less staying power in the deadlock with a Republican legislature as a result. This year Gov. Knowles must worry about the responsibility he may be assigned by his constituents, in the event of a breakdown of tax negotiations and the danger of cutbacks in state services resulting. The governor is the top man in the statewide political system to whom the electorate assigns responsibility in the event of trouble. The legislature is an assembly of largely anonymous politicians who can take more risks, as the politicians of both partisan persuasions know.

If the Republicans permit separate enactment of the budget, Gov. Knowles would lose an essential weapon in the contest of wills with the Democratic Assembly, which could then hold out indefinitely for its own taxation program and probably force his capitulation. The outcome? No one can now say.

Strictly Personal

Meaning of Words Constantly Changing

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Gov. Romney's recent speech, in which he strongly suggested that we replace the word "capitalism" with "consumerism," to describe the American economic system, is a striking example of the ways in which words become worsened with use.

In point of fact, Gov. Romney is quite right: our 20th Century system of distributing goods and profits bears little relation to the 19th Century idea of classic capitalism. The system has improved, but the word itself has become what the philologists call "pejorative."

labeled as an appeaser and compared to the European politicians who capitulated to Hitler.

Likewise, the ancient and honorable word "collaborator" lost most of its integrity during the same war. "Bourgeois," which was a neutral descriptive word for the middle class, is now a term of derogation; and, indeed, the word "class" itself is used mostly by sociologists, and a "class society" is considered almost as evil by most of the world as a "caste system." The word "reactionary," of course, has become sinister.

Not only political, social and economic terms, but general words as well, have taken on unpleasant connotations they did not originally have. "Academic" is now widely used in a derogatory sense ("That's only academic"), to reflect the contemporary vulgar view that the "mere" acquisition of knowledge is useless and perhaps harmful.

Along the same anti-intellectual lines, "hypothesis" is very nearly a dirty word in many semi-educated quarters. (It's just an hypothesis!), used to discredit what the speaker is opposing. What is forgotten—or has never been known—is that almost everything we believe is underpinned by some hypothesis or other.

Words change their connotations, and no force can stop them. "candid," for example, once meant "kindly and uncensorious." Now, when someone says, "I'm going to be candid with you," we know that he intends to be unkindly and censorious. In the 21st Century, "capitalism" will doubtless be lumped with "feudalism" as a term of opprobrium.

Use of Military Changed With Each President

Constitution Vague
On Authority as Commander in Chief

BY JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Truman didn't. President Eisenhower did. President Johnson did and didn't.

That's the mixed-up picture of how presidents down through American history used the armed forces, sometimes with and sometimes without congressional approval, even when it meant war.

The Constitution gives Congress alone the power to declare war but it says the president is commander in chief of Army and Navy. It neglects to say whether he needs a go-ahead from Congress before using them.

So the presidents, depending on the man and the circumstances, have suited themselves.

Presidents Jefferson, McKinley and Wilson are three examples of men who didn't ask the blessing of Congress when they thought it necessary to act.

Jefferson sent the Navy into action in the undeclared war against the Barbary pirates in 1801.

In 1900, McKinley sent 2,500 U.S. troops, along with about 16,000 from European countries, into China against fanatical Chinese, principally a group called the "Boxers," who were slaughtering foreigners and wanted to drive out the rest.

Wilson in 1914 sent the armed forces to capture Vera Cruz in Mexico.

When the North Korean Communists attacked South Korea in 1950, Truman sent in the armed forces without ever asking or getting specific congressional approval. Yet, this was a real war.

Actually, half an hour before he announced his action he called congressional leaders to the White House, told them the decision he had made and got their hearty endorsement.

For all practical purposes Congress did give him official approval for the war in the various measures it voted, like money, extending the draft and so on.

Nevertheless, as the fighting went on and the 1952 presidential campaign drew near, Republicans called it "Truman's war," a charge he might have avoided if he had pinned Congress down to specific approval.

Eisenhower, not faced with the same kind of emergency as Truman, made use of the time to get ready and in January 1955, asked and got from Congress approval for whatever action he might take to defend Formosa from Red Chinese attack.

Communist Aggression

But in 1957 he was looking ahead a year when he asked Congress for authority to use the armed forces to protect the Middle East from Communist aggression.

(Like other presidents before him Eisenhower could have used the forces when the time came, without this authorization, but by doing it this way he had a national endorsement for what he might do later.)

It took Eisenhower three months to get approval from both houses of Congress but, once he had it, it became known as the Eisenhower "doctrine" although he didn't have to use it until 1958.

Then, when Lebanon, friendly to the West, seemed in danger from communism or Egypt, Eisenhower sent the fleet there and put troops ashore.

Alcohol Contains Large Number of Calories

BY JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: My husband and I disagree over the calories in liquor and beer. The doctor put him on a reducing diet but didn't mention alcohol.

My husband thinks I'm just telling him they have so many calories because I don't want him to drink — Mrs. B.

Many fat people have this misconception about alcohol. The fact is that alcohol is high in calories. No matter how you slice it, fat is the result of absorbing more calories than the body uses up.

A bottle of beer runs about 150 calories; a jigger of whisky about 85 calories; cocktails about 185. Highballs made with water or soda will represent only the calories of the liquor in them. If they are made with ginger ale, cola or other sweet mixes, the calorie value may be twice as much. This depends on whether it's a tall drink.

If your husband figures somewhere about 100 calories per drink, he can do his own endorsement for the action he has taken in Viet Nam but not in the Dominican Republic.

Last August, when North Vietnamese PT boats attacked U.S. destroyers in the Gulf of Tonkin, he asked and got from Congress a blank check to do what he thought necessary. At that time he didn't do much.

Bombing in Viet Nam

He ordered the bombing of some North Vietnamese naval bases. But he used the blank check in full when Viet Cong guerrillas in South Viet Nam last February blasted a U.S. airbase with mortar fire.

Johnson ordered the bombing of North Viet Nam and that has been going on since, with a pause of only six days to see if the Communists wanted to talk peace. When they didn't, the bombing was resumed. Meanwhile, Johnson sent in Marines.

The congressional approval he got beforehand was very broad. It authorized "all necessary measures" to "prevent further aggression."

But when Johnson sent Marines into the Dominican Republic last month — explaining first it was to save American lives and then to stop a Communist takeover — he sought no formal nod from Congress.

And don't let him be fooled by the so-called drinking man's diet. A calorie is a calorie.

Dear Dr. Molner: I enclose 20 cents in coin and a stamped, self-addressed envelope for your booklet, "The Real Cure of Hemorrhoids." Can hemorrhoids that bleed ever cause cancer? — Mrs. R.R.

They won't cause cancer. However, it is not safe to suppose that because bleeding hemorrhoids are present, that it is impossible for cancer to be present, too. Complete examination is the only way to be sure, and safe.

Dear Dr. Molner: If a man has an "extracurricular" affair only several times, could his wife contract a disease from him? I have noticed that I have had a few rashes and sores. They have gone away but then come back, but not as bad.

Now I've noticed that my wife is breaking out with these rashes, and she has also complained about vaginal itching. She does not know about my affair. I have heard that there are no visible sores or symptoms from syphilis, and that only a blood test would show the disease. Is this true? — C.J.T.

You can get syphilis from just one contact with some woman who has the disease. You can then give it to your wife.

From your description, I don't think the signs indicate syphilis, but I have no idea whether you do or don't have it, or whether you have given it to your wife. The original sign is a painless sore, at the point at which the germ enters. If only it were a very painful sore, then we'd control this disease better!

In your case, I suspect that you may have taken home some sort of skin infection, and possibly some form of vaginitis. I suggest that you have a medical examination at once, to be followed by one for your wife. Itches and rashes may not be syphilis, but they need being taken care of, too.

Dear Dr. Molner: Can plastic surgery correct a congenital deformity such as a cleft lip? That is, can it be made whole? — C.D.H.

Some congenital defects (such as cleft lip, receding chins, noses that are too big or too small, ears that stick out, etc.) can be corrected by plastic surgery. Some others can't.

If your interest is in just the one defect, cleft lip (or, more accurately, cleft palate) the answer is yes. It is best to have it repaired in infancy.
